OFTEN SELF WILL LEADS TO MISERY

THE PRODIGAL SON—SUBJECT OF LAST EVENING'S SERVICE.

"I Know Nothing Better Than the Old, Old Story of God's Love."
Rev. E. E. Hendrick.

Last evening was cool and pleasant and the usual large audience gathered at the revival services to hear a most excellent sermon. Rev. Hendrick's subject was the "Prodigal Son," a story which he affirmed surpasses all other in depth, and beauty and he told the matchless story in all its beauty, grandeur and sublimity.

At the beginning he announced to his congregation that he had no new story, saying "I know nothing better than the old, old story of God's love. The old homestead with its evidence of prosperity, its broad fields, pleasant surroundings and good companionship was depicted in vivid, glowing style. But the boy becomes dissatisfied with home and the wholesome restraint of parents, he is given his portion and wanders to the land afar off. He spends his substance in riotous living and is discarded and disowned by the evil companions whose favor he has so blindly coveted.

"Often self will leads to misery. We see it today when young people start out on the journey of life. It is a sad day for any young man when he says good-bye to the old home and goes out into the world, into bad company. When a young man goes away from home and good companionship and goes out into bad company, drinking and gambling he inevitably goes down in a hurry. These are some of the truths that were presented to the minds and hearts of the attentive audience last night.

Continuing the story of the prodigal the minister showed that if a person desired to live independent of God, God would let him. Touching on how sin takes possession of a life, the minister said in effect, that sin entered step by step until finally it takes full possession of the soul.

Applying the conditions of the prodigal son to our lives, those who have wandered away from the Heavenly Father, he pictured the son alone, dejected, wrecked physically and on starvation, he said, "Away from God is starvation. There is pleasure in sin, but there is death, in the pot while you enjoy the sweets."

The prodigal alone in his misery thought, "When a young man learns to think he should have a diploma" quoted the evangelist. "I wish you would think tonight of how sin is robbing you, and you would not stay away from God."

The prodigal had to conquer pride, and it took his best courage to say, "I WILL arise and go;" likewise concludes the minister it take the very best grit in a wanderer to say I WILL return to the FATHER, but even as the prodigal was received by his father, God will welcome and Heaven will rejoice at the sinner's return.

CRIPPEN IS STILL AT LARGE

Scotland Yard Officials Are Baffled by Circumstantial Reports—Inquest Begun.

London, July 18.—Notwithstanding circumstantial reports that Dr. Hawley H. Crippen had been seen at widely separated points, all of the supposed clues proved to be valueless and the London police are still without any tangible evidence that would be likely to lead to arrest.

The coroner's inquest began yesterday over the dismembered body, found buried in the cellar of the Crippen Hildrop Crescent residence, and which the police have associated with the disappearance of Crippen's wife, Belle Elmore. The testimony today proved to be of small service in establishing the identity, as the mass of flesh was so mutilated as to make it impossible for experts even to fix the sex of the victim.

After several witnesses had been examined relative to the finding of the body, the domestic relations of Dr. Crippen and wife, the occurrences at the Crippen home on the night of January 31, when Belle Elmore was last seen alive and the interrogations which Crippen later was subjected to by friends of the singer. The inquest was adjourned for one month.

The Scotland Yard officials are now of the opinion that Crippen and Ethel Leneve, his former stenographer, and believed to be his companion when he disappeared from home July 9, may be aboard the steamer Kroonland, due at New York tomorrow night.

Effort to Rob Fredrick Bank.

Fredrick, Ok., July 19.—An effort was made to rob a bank at Heldster, Ok., last night. Officers had been given a tip, and Sheriff Carter and two deputies were in waiting, capturing the two men after one had entered the bank by a window. One shot was fired by one of the men arrested, doing no harm. The men are in jail here.

EXECUTIVE BOARD LABOR FEDERATION

DENOUNCE MURRAY AND PLEDGE TO FIGHT HIS CANDIDACY FOR GOVERNOR.

Also, Legislative Committee, State Labor Federation and Ex-Officers of Farmers Union Join In.

Oklahoma City, July 19.—The executive board of the federation of labor, jointly with the legislative committee of that organization and J. A. West, former president of the Oklahoma Farmers' union, and O. H. Mathis, a former member of the executive board of the Farmers' union, Sunday adopted resolutions denouncing Murray and pledging labor to fight his candidacy for governor in this campaign.

The labor leaders first revived a resolution that was passed at Ardmore, July 29, 1908, and followed that with a stronger denunciation of Murray's record. The resolutions call upon all fair-minded men to co-operate with the laboring men in this effort to defeat Murray in the primary election.

Union Labor is After Bill Murray.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the resolution adopted by the Ardmore convention of the Oklahoma State Federation of Labor with reference to Wm. H. Murray of Tishomingo, on July 29, 1908, to-wit: "Whereas, Speaker Wm. H. Murray of the house of representatives of Oklahoma, has by his own actions proved himself to be a representative of class interests instead of the interests of the masses; and,

"Whereas, his duplicity in connection with the graduated land tax bill, usuary bill telegraphers' bill, child labor bill, the eight-hour bill, the full crew bill, and the bills known as 81a and 81b (relative to the labor department), and his opposition as well as his underhanded work to practically all legislation proposed in behalf of the agricultural and laboring masses shows conclusively that he was the representative of the corporations; and,

"Whereas, his gang rule as speaker of the house, and his disrespect shown ladies, has proven him to be a man destitute of honor and void of principle; therefore, be it

"Resolved, that the Oklahoma State Federation of Labor, in convention assembled, does hereby pronounce Wm. H. Murray as unfair to all union members everywhere, and we pledge our efforts and ballots to the end that he shall be defeated for any political office he may aspire to, and we shall regard any official or party that continue to boost William H. Murray as an enemy to the masses of Oklahoma."

"And whereas, there has been held since that date three sessions of said State Federation of Labor and the said resolutions have never been rescinded of the truth of the accusations therein contained questioned; therefore, be it

"Resolved by the executive board and the legislative committee of the State Federation of Labor in called session this 17th day of July, 1910, that the said Ardmore resolution is hereby reiterated and re-affirmed, that Mr. Murray's actions since that time have not been such as would convince this board and committee that he maintains a different attitude with reference to the interests of the farmers and laborers in Oklahoma; that while in his speeches throughout the state in his canvass for governor he has represented to the people that he supported every measure championed by the farmers and laborers, we call especial attention to the fact that the records show that he only voted for them after opposing them with all the ability at his command after he saw they were going to become laws, and in this connection we call attention to that section of the resolution which characterizes his duplicity in connection with the graduated land tax bill, usuary bill, telegraphers' bill, full crew bill, child labor bill, eight-

hour bill, the bill known as 81a and 81b, relative to labor department, and his opposition as well as his underhanded work to practically all legislation proposed in behalf of the agricultural and laboring masses, shows conclusively that he was a representative of the corporations.

"Resolved, further, that since it has always been the policy of the State Federation of Labor to support its friends, we deem it of even paramount importance that we condemn the conduct of such men as Wm. H. Murray, who is now an active candidate for governor on the democratic ticket, and that our influence is hereby pledged to his defeat in the coming primary election, and we earnestly solicit the co-operation of all fair-minded men who believe in the rule of the people. We also call especial attention to the conclusion of the said Ardmore resolution which states that the laboring people regard any organization or party which continues to boost Mr. Murray as an enemy of the masses of Oklahoma, and that we cannot render him our support under any circumstances.

"Oklahoma State Federation of Labor—

"C. C. Zeigler, president; C. E. Connally, J. D. Carr, Gus E. Koecker, J. S. Campbell, J. Luther Langston, Secretary-Treasurer; Executive Board "Lee Payne, chairman; George McConnell Jesse L. Day, Legislative Committee.

"Indorsed and concurred in by: "J. A. West, ex-Pres. State Farmers' union.

"O. H. Matthews, ex-member executive board State Farmers' Union.

"Tom Roach, ex-member executive board State Farmers' Union.

TO BAR THE FIGHT FILMS

GOVERNOR CAMPBELL OF TEXAS INTRODUCES PROHIBITORY BILL IN LEGISLATURE.

SPECIAL SESSION IS CALLED

Solons of Lone Star State Will Repeal the Fire Insurance Rating Board Law.

Austin, Tex., July 19.—Governor Campbell today submitted to the state legislature, which convened in special session, a recommendation for a law prohibiting moving picture exhibitions of the Johnson-Jeffries fight.

It is probable that the measure will seek to debar the exhibition of all kinds of pugilistic encounters.

The governor says the display of the fight pictures would excite race feeling and probably result in disturbances.

The special session begins its work only four days before the democratic primaries, which will be held next Saturday throughout the state, as the culmination of a spirited and bitter campaign.

The specific purpose of the special session as named in the call is to repeal the fire insurance rating board law. It is charged by anti-prohibition leaders that the governor's real object is to forestall the possible election of O. B. Colquitt, the candidate of the anti-prohibition faction for governor by raising and bringing about the enactment of restrictive legislation that will practically put the saloons out of business in Texas.

Has Neck Broken in Dive.

Guthrie, Ok., July 19.—William Marquardt, a wealthy German land owner of Logan county, was instantly killed Sunday night at the "White City," a Cimarron river gathering resort near here. Marquardt, who is passed middle age, dived from a companion's shoulder in shallow water. His neck was broken. A few months ago, Marquardt and two brothers in Ohio inherited an estate in Germany worth $500,000.

COMMISSION LOWERS SWITCHING CHARGES

Railroads Protest on Ground of Increase Cost of Rolling Stock and Labor.

Guthrie, Ok., July 19.—All Oklahoma railroads appeared before the corporation commission today to protest against the commission's proposed order reducing switching charges from $2 to $5 per car to $1.50 $2, and $2.50 per car, according to the service. After conference of the representatives, a compromise proposition was submitted, the roads agreeing to a charge on the basis of $2, $2.50 and $3 per car. This has not been accepted.

Demands of Shippers.

W. T. Tyler of Springfield, Mo., general superintendent of the Frisco system, told the commission that the cost of switching had increased greater in proportion than had the charges for road work, and that the cost of switching equipment had like wise advanced. A few years ago, he said, a switch engine could be purchased for $7,000 but now they cost $15,000 and where cars with 40,000 to 60,000 pound capacity answered, shippers were now demanding 100,000 pound capacity cars.

The switching rate, he said had not been advanced, and when considered from the standpoint of tonnage had easily been reduced half.

W. R. Beacom, general superintendent of the Rock Island, testified that the cost of switching was from $2.50 to $3 per car, although there were instances in large junctions where the minimum charge was $1.50 and elsewhere the maximum was $5 per car.

W. A. Durham of St. Louis, assistant to the general manager of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, stated that the recognized minimum charge between railroads was $2 per car, whether the railroads absorbed the cost or the shipper paid it, and to him this appeared to be a reasonable rate. All witnesses agreed that it was difficult to determine the cost since that was dependent upon the amount of business.

The Weather.

Is fine, 85 was the highest temperature today and last night it went down to 63. The barometer stands at 28.8 indicative of clear weather for a day or two.

Ada, Okla., under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

No negro without white blood in his veins has ever accomplished a single act that has made his name immortal. The skull of the pure negro closes between eighteen and twenty-two. The skull of the white man does not close until seventy. This explains why the negro boy is a fair competitor with his white classmates during school days but never accomplishes anything in after life. The brain of the white boy keeps on expanding, while that of the negro closes up. We must learn a lesson from history. Nature itself has fixed the status of the blackman, and nothing that we can do will change it. He is ignorant, brutal, superstitious and a slave to his passions. Abraham Lincoln said that it would be a crime to give him a vote. Oklahoma is peculiarly situated in the pathway of the black man in his migration to the North. He will stop where he obtains the most privileges, and if given the right to vote we may expect them here, and posterity will rise up and condemn us for our blindness and incapacity to grapple in a patriotic manner with as grave a proposition as is this—Alva Pioneer.

"The negro is not so much trouble as you have heard," said a republican politician of the East side a few weeks since. "On election day we give the right man a little money, send him into a negro precinct, and the negroes all vote as they are told." A beautiful situation, indeed, where one ward-heeler can take $1 and by hearing fifty negroes—none of whom can read—can nullify the votes of fifty university graduates.

There are several thousand former Kansans in Oklahoma who will vote on the "Grandfather Clause" on August 2nd. They should remember that when a constitutional amendment giving negroes the right to vote was submitted to the people of Kansas in 1867 it was voted down by a majority of 9,938. This was done when Kansas was solidly republican and there were hardly enough democrats in the state to fill a jury box.

No one will be disfranchised by the Grandfather Clause but illiterate negroes and the descendants of negro slaves. The man who says it will disfranchise you is telling you that your veins run negroid blood. If you are disfranchised, you are a negro. If you are not a negro, you will not be disfranchised.

PERFECTS A COTTON PICKER

Machine's Grushes Will Take Ripe

Cotton Without Hurting the Plant.

Washington, July 19.—Patents were issued Tuesday to Crawford Elliott, the inventor of the book type-writer, on a cotton picker or harvester which he has perfected as the result of nearly seven years' constant effort. The basic patent granted covers forty different claims. The machine has been tested for two years in the cotton fields, and with it one man and a team of mules will do the work of forty hand pickers. Only the ripe cotton is picked, and this is done without injury to the green cotton or the flowers. The principle of the machine is a double row of bristle brushes about one and one-half inches in diameter and fourteen inches long, spinning rapidly in such a manner that the revolving brushes are introduced into the plants close to the ground and drawn up in a vertical line through the plants, the brushes penetrating the bushes from both sides of the row. The ripe cotton adheres to the brushes while the rest of the plant is not in any way affected, the brushes traveling to a receptacle, where they are stripped of the cotton and the operation is repeated.

It has been thoroughly tested and demonstrated that it will do the work at a quarter of the cost of hand labor, which means a saving of $150,000,000 a year to the cotton growers.

NO CAPITAL DECISION AS YET

It May Come in a Day or Two or Not For a Week.

Guthrie, Okla., July 19.—There was no decision of the supreme court today in the capital case, nor was one expected by those interested in the case. The supreme court met today as usual, passed upon a number of motions and heard arguments in several cases but, there was no mention of the capital removal case.

The following statement may be taken as from a high source and correct: "There may be a decision in the capital removal case next court day (which is Tuesday, July 26) but it is by no means certain. It may be later. There is, of course, a possibility that decision may come down sooner, within the next day or so, but this is very unlikely according to present circumstances."

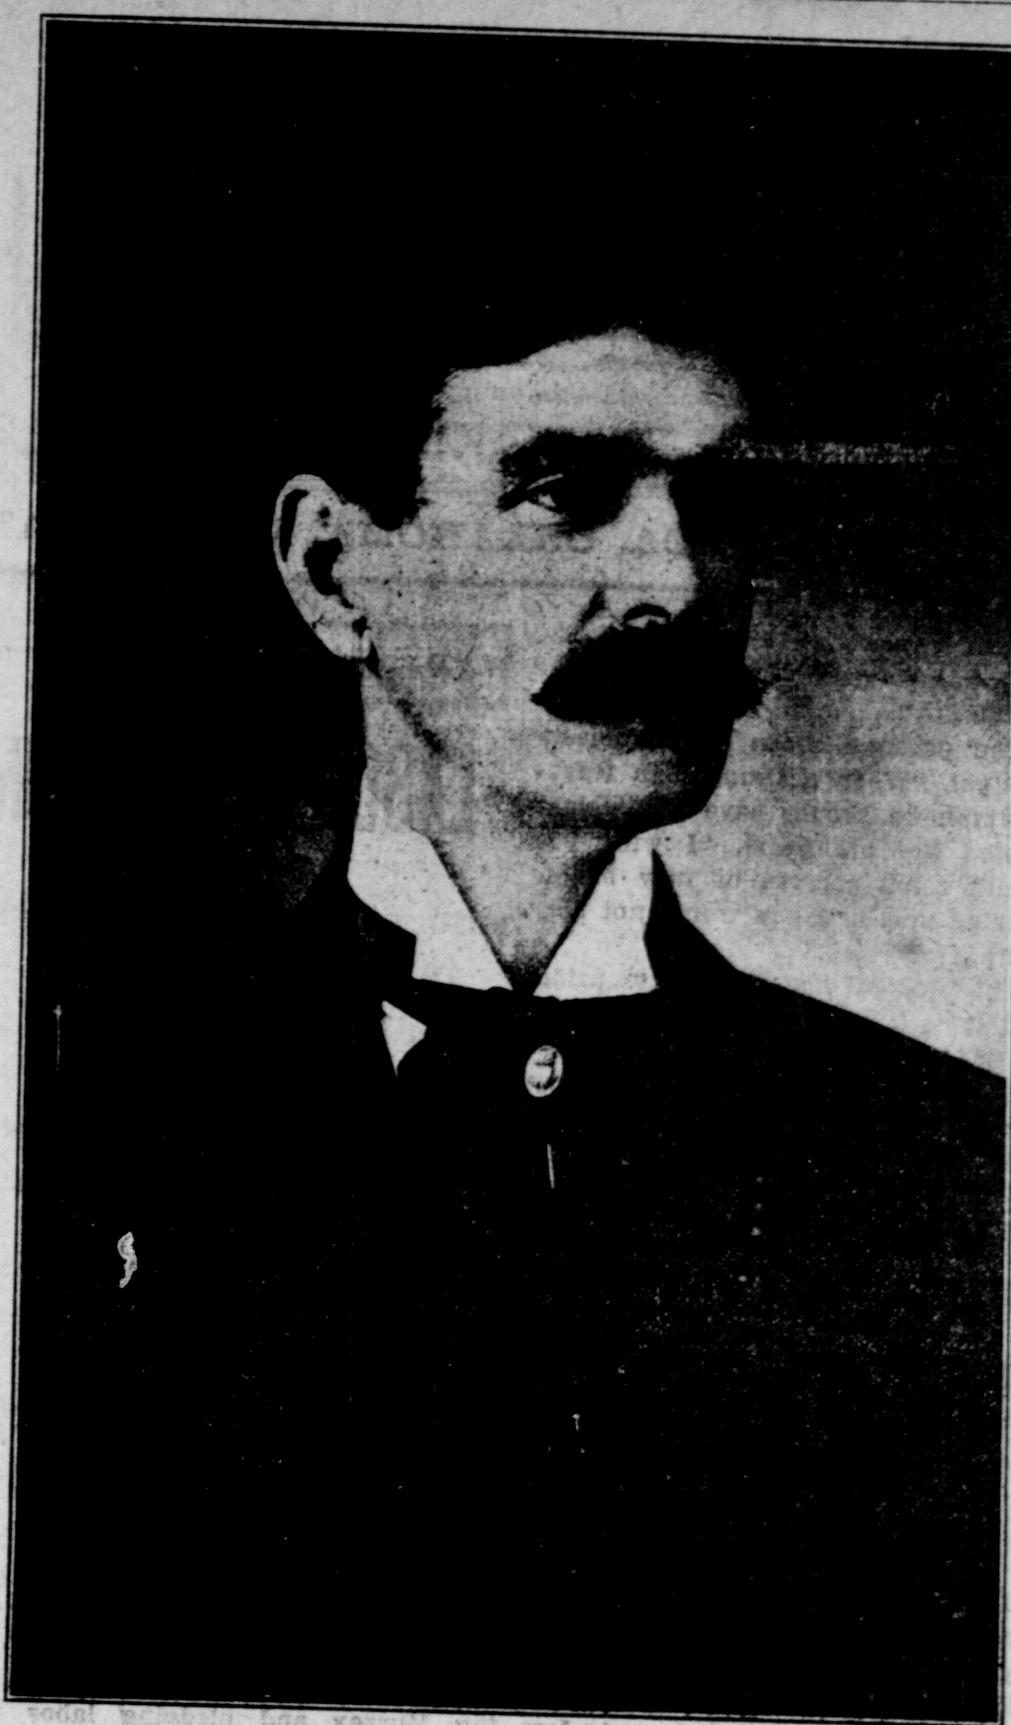

What the court is doing and will do is being anxiously discussed here, as well as down at Oklahoma City, and already stories are afloat alleging that the court has decided in favor of Guthrie, has decided in favor of Oklahoma City, is divided two and three, or vice versa.

CONGR'SSMAN SCOTT FERRIS ON "GRANDFATHER CLAUSE."

"The Amendment affects no Indian or white man within the state. This is not a new law. It prevails in rock-ribbed republican Maine, it exists in a great many of the states—it is just—it is right—it ought to exist everywhere. It is the solemn duty of every voter to actively engage in its adoption. It means a higher class of citizenship. It will lead up to nobler and better deeds. It will dispense justice and good results to all. It will place the right to vote out of reach of no industrious man. Schools are free to all with no exceptions, hence this amendment leaves the right to vote as free as the water that flows. A reasonable regulation is a blessing rather than a burden. It will WITH-HOLD THE BALLOT FROM THOSE BLACKS who are uneducated until the weeds of ignorance, indolence and idleness have been unrooted and safely transplanted in their stead, the wholesome germ of education, understanding and industry. BE NOT DECEIVED BY FALSE AND SCANDALOUS REPORTS WHICH HAVE NO FOUNDATION IN FACT. The adoption of this amendment will be wholesome in effect, for all the citizens of this state."

BARTLESVILLE INJUNCTION HAS BEEN DISMISSED

Bartlesville, Ok., July 19.—The injunction that restrained the Bartlesville Interurban company from furnishing light and power to the people of the city has been dissolved at the request of the light and water company. This fight has lasted a year. The interurban company had been granted a franchise for the purpose asked, but could not take a step in that direction pending the determination of the suit upon which the injunction was based.

Married in Shawnee.

We have it from reliable authority that Wm. Felter, former editor of the Wigwam and now head push on the Roff Eagle, quietly threw off the weeds of widowhood at Shawnee, Sunday, June 26, and was united in holy bonds of wedlock with Miss Mary Mahan, who for some time past has served the public in the capacity of assistant in the Sasakwa postoffice. Both the contracting parties are social favorites in Sasakwa. They are to be congratulated upon the happy ending of "love's sweet dream," but the Wigwam, like the rest of their friends, thinks it "real mean" of them to get married and not tell their friends any thing about it for so long. We solemnly warn them never, never to do the likes of that again.—Francis Wigwam.

Dinner for Bridal Party.

Mrs. C. Stubblefield served dinner Tuesday evening to the bridal party.

The house was decorated with pot plants and cut flowers. The dining room was beautiful in yellow, nasturtiums being the principal flowers used for the table. The wedding bell was suspended over an immense cut glass vase of yellow cannas in the center of the table, the streamers from the bell to the four corners of the table were finished with large bows.

Mrs. Torbett ushered the party into the dining room, where their places were designated by dainty hand-painted place cards.

A four-course dinner was served; the first course, ambrosia in orange halves with cherry phosphate; second, salad course; third, fried chicken with cream gravy, potato chips and hot rolls; fourth, lemon snow and angel food.

The twelve served were: Mr. B. H. Mason and Miss Lula Stubblefield; Misses Gladys and Estelle Torbett, Mason, Mrs. Torbett, Mrs. Kenton and Messrs. Boston, of Oklahoma City, Haraway, Maddox and Gilbreath.

Several hundred of Ada's social and polite people, being friends of Miss Lula Stubblefield or Mr. B. H. Mason, usually both, always the best well wishers of each assembled at the First Baptist church this morning at 9:30 o'clock where their marriage was witnessed.

Mr. A. A. Boston, a personal friend of Mr. Mason, and a florist of Oklahoma City, had decorated the church with beautiful palms and cut flowers.

Just before the party entered, Mrs. Hattie Prewitt Kenton, of Durant, sang "Beloved It Is Morn." Mrs. Kenton has a magnificent voice.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Mrs. S. M. Torbett, the party entered: Messrs. Maddox and Gilbreath, ushers; Miss Mason, maid of honor, with Mr. G. H. Boston; Miss Estelle Torbett, bride's maid, with Mr. Ed Haraway. Violet Moore, the little cupid, preceded Miss Stubblefield and Mr. Mason.

The bride was beautiful in a gown of white lace over satin and a large white hat. She carried a bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor and bride's maid wore white lingerie gowns with back sashes of pink and black picture hats, carrying bouquets of pink roses. Little cupid was perfect in white with pink ribbons. She held a pink rose, in which was hidden the wedding ring.

It was a ring ceremony and every feature of which from the manner and dignity of the entrance of the bride and groom and attendants to the conclusion, when sweet little Violet Moore released the wedding ring where it lay imbedded in the petals of the rose she held slightly aloft and was taken by the minister, and with appropriate reference handed it to the bridegroom who sealed the marriage by delicately placing on the finger of the beautiful bride.

It was a beautiful marriage, the bride, her maid of honor, and bridesmaid, being beautiful young women, exquisitely attired and of faultless part throughout; the bridegroom and gentleman attendants, strong, handsome, replete in regulation fashion's attire were entirely equal to the interesting occasion.

While the eyes could have feasted and interest remained long intent on the attractive appearance of the bridal party, there was a slightly elevated view and a more profound feeling when the Rev. C. Stubblefield, beloved minister, the father of the bride, came forward and in dignified, impressive, almost tremulous manner at times pronounced the ceremony which gave into another's keeping, the daughter, which he so devotedly loved.

Several intimate friends, well-wishers of the bride and groom, followed the party over to the residence to extend congratulations and say goodbye. A lively piano rendition by Mr. Boston soon drove the tears away and everybody was merry and happy.

A number of friends were at the station when Mr. and Mrs. Mason departed over the Katy for Kansas City, where they will spend several days before visiting Mr. Mason's mother and sisters at Appleton City. They will spend the month of August at a popular summer resort in Missouri.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason will be at home in Ada, for a while at least, after the first of September. They will have many useful and handsome remembrances from friends, in their new home, for the bride received a large number of presents in cut glass, silver ware, hand-painted china, linen, etc. She was very popular in Durant where she grew to womanhood when her father was pastor there, and her friends from that city remembered her with numerous and very handsome presents. We would publish the list of presents but they were so numerous that space forbids.

Miss Stubblefield has resided in Ada since the assumption by her father of the charge of the First Baptist church. She was devoted to her fathers church and contributed much toward the popularity of the choir. Miss Stubblefield was a rarely beautiful young lady, was deservedly the idol of her home and was sincerely popular with her associates.

Mr. B. H. Mason, the bridegroom, until lately, when he resigned on account of ill health, was cashier of the M. & P. bank. He was exceptionally popular with his associates, was a good fellow to the utmost and a gentleman of integrity and recognized business qualifications.

Mrs. Hattie Prewitt Kenton, who has been the guest of her friend, Miss Stubblefield for a week prior to the wedding, returned to her home at Durant today, leaving on the Katy with the bride and groom.

Mr. G. H. Boston, of Oklahoma City, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Mason to Atoka, returning on the afternoon train to his home at Oklahoma City.

Miss Lydia Mason, after a few weeks visit to her brother, B. H. Mason, left this morning for her home at Appleton City, Mo.

Mrs. G. H. Bruce of Ardmore, a long time friend of Rev. and Mrs. Stubblefield came over to attend the wedding. She is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Torbett.

Mrs. Ode Colbert and children, who were up from Durant to attend the wedding, will remain over with her father, Rev. Stubblefield until tomorrow.

Mrs. J. A. Baldwin of Duncan, who intended to arrive yesterday to be present at her sister's wedding, but missed connection with the O. C. at Chickasha, did not reach Ada until this afternoon. She will spend a few days with her father, Rev. Stubblefield.

MY DOCTOR MIGHTY FINE

Mrs. Hattie Cain of Carrsville Thinks all the More of Her Doctor Since He Advised Her to Take Cardui.

Carrsville, Ky.—"My doctor," writes Mrs. Hattie Cain, "who advised me to take Cardui, for my troubles, is a mighty fine doctor, and I say God bless Cardui and the people who make it."

"Before I took Cardui, I suffered with female troubles for sixteen years. I would have to send for a doctor every three months, and oh! how dreadfully I suffered!"

"I would cramp and have convulsions and it looked like I would die. At last I took Cardui and oh! what a surprise! I found it was the medicine for me!"

"From the first bottle, I began to mend and now I am well, can do more work, can walk and go where I please and it don't hurt me, and I owe it all to Cardui."

Cardui helps sick women back to health. It has been doing this for over 50 years. It is not a laxative, or a heart or kidney medicine—it is a woman's medicine.

If you are a woman, try it.

CROP PROSPECTS VERY FLATTERING

INDICATIONS POINT TO THE BEST IN HISTORY OF THE COUNTY.

The consensus of opinion of conservative business men and farmers who are conversant with crop conditions throughout the county, is that prospects were never better. Crops have received more thorough cultivation and a greater per cent of land in cultivation than ever before. The increase in acreage this year will not be less than fifteen per cent greater than last year, while it is estimated that conditions are estimated to be from 20 to 50 per cent better. With a great deal more land in cultivation, with prospects for yield never better, nothing short of disaster now will prevent Pontotoc county from having its history making "bumper crop."

Corn is practically matured at present and the yield per acre on an average over the county, placed at conservative figures will be thirty-five bushels—even if there should not be another rain, while a good rain fall at the right time would be of great benefit in helping "fill out" the ears and making them full and heavy. Some farmers report they will make as high as seventy bushels per acre as the crop now stands, but that is away above the average.

Oats have been cut and are threshing out from 45 to 60 bushels per acre, with a good acreage planted.

Cotton is blooming, the stalks are well formed and fruiting heavily. Not many are willing to make an estimate on the cotton yield, because of the many disasters that could yet come to cotton. However, most all think a half bale per acre is assured now if no calamity befalls the crop.

The eastern part of the county has received more rain than the western, but no section can be said to have suffered. In many respects the dry weather was a benefit to farmers. It gave them opportunity to till the soil thoroughly, and caused them to give distance to the plants, thereby insuring a strong vigorous growth.

To sum up the situation as best one can without statistics to base calculations on, it may be expressed as follows: No land is idle this year; there is 15 or 20 per cent increase in acreage over last year; crops have been better worked and promise a greater yield this year than ever before.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Ada women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders.

Can Ada sufferers desire stronger proof than this woman's words?

Mrs. H. L. Sadler, of Coalgate, Ok., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills did more for me than any other kidney remedy I ever used. I suffered for more than three years from kidney disease in a severe form. My back ached constantly and there were dull, bearing down pains through my loins. I was also subject to dizzy spells and at times my sight became blurred. When the attacks were at their height, I was helpless and had to sit down. I doctored and tried everything I could think of in the hope of finding relief, but I was only helped temporarily. Finally I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and shortly after beginning their use, I received a complete cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

MAJOR SAM TORBETT RETURNS FROM REUNION OF ELKS

Major Sam Torbett, a member of the grand lodge of Elks has returned from the reunion of the "Bills" the greatest social organization on earth which has just concluded a three days' session at Detroit, Michigan.

Mr. Torbett usually co-incides his vacation with the time of the national meeting of the Grand Lodge of Elks. He left home on the 8th inst., a little ahead of the regular Elks' train out of Oklahoma City, and went direct to St. Louis, and from there to Chicago at which places he transacted business, and from there to Detroit, which he reached on the evening of the 11th, ready for the three days' reunion, which began on the morning of the 12th. When the reunion was concluded, instead of returning home with the southern Elks, he joined those of the north, together with a small party of southerners, and visited Niagara Falls and Buffalo on Friday and Saturday the 15th and 16th insts. Major Sam states that he enjoyed the visit to Niagara thoroughly. It was from Detroit to Niagara that he had first traveled in a foreign country, proceeding for a long distance through Canada. Being asked as to the difference between the appearances of the country of the far north and this country at this season of the year, more especially as to crops and vegetation, he stated: "That naturally all such growths were much later, and that the corn was not more than one foot in height, that it was a great wheat and stock country."

Referring further to Niagara he said, "While it was a beautiful city, principally of magnificent hotels, it was Niagara that afforded the great attraction, and the great gorge route enabled one to enjoy the whirl pools falls and rapids to the utmost. The great gorge route almost surrounds the falls and gives you every vantage point of view. The length of the famous route is about twenty-five miles."

This fellow-townsmen expressed gladness to be at home again with his family and among his friends. He felt grateful that the late rain fall had principally insured crops.

DR. BOBBY AND NURSE IRENE

By BRYANT C. ROGERS

Bobby Shattuck's first patient was a big Irishman, as drunk as a lord. He tumbled into the new office with his hands up to a very bloody head, as if he had to hold it on. "Get me a doctor!" he groaned, and Bobby, poor fellow, was so overjoyed to have a real patient, with a real scalp wound to sew up, that he treated that Irishman like a prince.

The patient appreciated it, as was evident when he took his departure. He got out a large red handkerchief and began to cry into it. "The worst of it is," he sobbed, "I've no money for you—nothing but a hear-r-t full of love! But that's better than any money."

True, no doubt. But just then Bobby really preferred being paid in base coin. He did wonder sometimes, afterward, if that first fee were a sort of omen, for he did not get rich rapidly. He had a few patients that paid, but it seemed to him as if everybody that couldn't pay came to him begging his help.

He had been in practice about a year one morning when he stood on the street corner near his office thinking it all over. Sixteenth street was crowded with women out shopping and all at once he felt a familiar pull at his heart strings and he knew Irene Louise was near. He really knew her so slightly that he had no right to have a pull at the heart strings.

But she was always very sweet with him. Her face flashed into a smile as she passed him.

"Oh, Doctor Shattuck!" she said. "If you aren't too busy professionally come out to Court place some Friday evening."

"Thank you," said Bobby Shattuck. "I—thank you."

And just then Billy Calkins happened along and saw the kindling eyes of Bobby. "You, too!" exclaimed Billy.

"I don't know what you mean," said Bobby coldly.

"I suppose you think you're doing something original."

"I'm still more in the dark."

"Then—since you're obtuse—let's talk of something else—Irene Louise Faxon, for instance. She, Robert, has had 1,300 offers this month, as near as I can calculate."

"One from you?"

"Bet your sweet life, no. And Doc, askin', your pardon, I don't think it would be much use for you to propose, either."

"I see myself proposing to a girl," said Bobby, bitterly, "let alone an heiress."

"She isn't an heiress," asserted Billy. "She's a plain beauty. No, not a plain one, a beauty. She lives with an old woman who has nothing to leave her—her aunt, it is. They say the girl doesn't even have pocket money. So you see, Doc, she's got to marry at least a million. I tell you this because I fear you are going to get hit hard."

Bobby went back to his office and as there was nothing to do, he sat reading a magazine for a while. Much good it did him to go into society! The rich would ask him to call, but when they were ill they sent for somebody else.

As he reflected grimly on his affairs the telephone jingled and he answered it.

"Is this Doctor Shattuck?" a voice asked.

"This is Doctor Shattuck," answered Bobby.

"Can you come out to 17 Court place right away, doctor?"

"Seventeen Court place"—the address actually frightened poor Bobby—for he was called to the most fashionable quarter of the city, and he threw a few things into a medicine case, and in five minutes he was speeding southward on a trolley.

Suddenly his heart did a funny little jump, then set off at the rate of a dollar watch that is out of fix. He knew that number. It was hers. "Buzz-zip!" his heart went, and didn't bring up—with a bump—till they had reached the end of the trolley line.

Hurrying through Court place he saw massive homes with deep doorways finished in marble and gardeners busy preparing the shrubbery for winter. To the south—dark blue, crinkled with wind, dotted here and there with gay little sails—shimmered the lake. It was all very fine. No doubt she had set her heart on having such an establishment. No doubt! Bobby ought to have hated her for her mercenary soul, as Billy Calkins did, but somehow he couldn't seem to hate her for anything. He only wondered, as he pulled the bell, if it was she who had been taken in.

As soon as the door opened into the large reception hall in fluttered Miss Faxon herself.

"Oh, Doctor Shattuck!" she exclaimed, "how good of you to come at once. The patient is a very poor woman who used to be our cook. I'll take you there in the machine."

She seemed embarrassed as she laid her hand on his sleeve.

"I wanted to say that cook is very poor. I've been nursing her myself, but I felt as if we needed a doctor."

She swallowed hastily, and lifted her eyes. "I—of course I wish I could ask that the bill be sent to me, but I haven't any money of my own at all."

And you were the only doctor I felt

ad to say.

Mrs. Golightly's Lesson

"Now, dear, I'll teach you how to play chess," said Mr. Golightly, as he settled himself for the evening. "Get the board and men, and you may bring my pipe, too."

"It's so nice of you to be willing to show me—"

"Of course, my dear, you know it is a man's game—it really takes brain to play a good game of chess. I hope you can master it enough to make a game interesting to me some time."

"Yes, dear," answered his wife, meekly.

"Now, Mrs. Golightly, you can't play chess with the board at an angle of 45 degrees."

"Degrees of what?"

"Fahrenheit. Get a higher chair and put your mind on the game."

"I like this rocker; it's comfortable."

"It's against all rules of chess to keep fidgeting—"

"I'll put a book on my lap. I've been studying the rules, but I didn't see anything about fidgeting."

Here the book slipped and the board was only saved by the quick action of Mr. Golightly.

"If you think this a 'shoot the chutes,' you are mistaken," he said, severely. "My idea is to teach you chess—if possible."

"I'll get a higher chair," she said, assuming the expression of an early Christian martyr. "I learned how to set the men out of the book, only I want to play with the white ones, 'cause I've been practicing with them."

"What has the color to do with the game? Now I move—so."

Perfect silence for a few minutes.

"It's your move, dear," said Mrs. Golightly.

"Don't I know it? A man has to stop to think; he doesn't play any old thing. This isn't 'give away.'"

"Then why do you put your castle where I can take it?"

"Because I was trying to show you the game, and I have to talk so much—"

"I thought you said it required silence?"

"It does, unless you are playing with a woman." Here Golightly started to take one of her men.

"Oh, wait, I haven't taken my fingers off yet. I don't think I'll move it there. I'll move it here and check your king."

"Very nice, only you can't jump across the board that way. Check to your queen."

"Too bad. I must take your queen. I guess you didn't see my bishop. Do you want me to take it back?"

"I don't play the baby act. If I hadn't been talking to you I should not have moved there."

Mrs. Golightly swept the queen from the board, and left two men in jeopardy.

"Ahem! I was watching your side—" "I should think you'd watch your own. I do. It isn't your move."

"Yes, it is."

"No, you moved, and I took your queen and then you—"

"Don't get excited. Keep your temper—if you can. You make more fuss than you would buying a new bonnet," snarled Mr. Golightly.

"I think I am playing well enough to beat you just the same."

"Certainly when I have to work for us both. You may be able to beat a donkey—"

"That's what I said," grinned Mrs. Golightly. "Oh!" she shrieked, plunging through an unguarded space. "I'm going to take your king."

"Put that man down," yelled Golightly. "You can't take a king. You don't understand the first rudiments of the game—after all my teaching—"

"But he is so he can't move—"

"That would be checkmate—only I can move here."

"No you can't. My man guards that!"

"Well, if you can't play a simple game of chess without yelling like a Comanche—"

"What's a Comanche? Anyway, you can't move."

And Golightly looked what he wanted to say.

OFTEN SELF WILL LEADS TO MISERY

THE PRODIGAL SON—SUBJECT OF LAST EVENING'S SERVICE.

"I Know Nothing Better Than the Old, Old Story of God's Love."
Rev. E. E. Hendrick.

Last evening was cool and pleasant and the usual large audience gathered at the revival services to hear a most excellent sermon. Rev. Hendrick's subject was the "Prodigal Son" a story which he affirmed surpasses all other in depth, and beauty and he told the matchless story in all its beauty, grandeur and sublimity.

At the beginning he announced to his congregation that he had no new story, saying I know nothing better than the old, old story of God's love. The old homestead with its evidence of prosperity, its broad fields, pleasant surroundings and good companionship was depicted in vivid, glowing style. But the boy becomes dissatisfied with home and the wholesome restraint of parents, he is given his portion and wanders to the land afar off. He spends his substance in riotous living and is discarded and disowned by the evil companions whose favor he has so blindly coveted.

"Often self will leads to misery. We see it today when young people start out on the journey of life. It is a sad day for any young man when he says good-bye to the old home and goes out into the world, into bad company. When a young man goes away from home and good companionship and goes out into bad company, drinking and gambling he inevitably goes down in a hurry. These are some of the truths that were presented to the minds and hearts of the attentive audience last night.

Continuing the story of the prodigal the minister showed that if a person desired to live independent of God, God would let him. Touching on how sin takes possession of a life, the minister said in effect, that sin entered step by step until finally it takes full possession of the soul.

Applying the conditions of the prodigal son to our lives, those who have wandered away from the Heavenly Father, he pictured the son alone, dejected, wrecked physically and on starvation, he said, "Away from God is starvation. There is

The prodigal alone in his misery thought, "When a young man learns to think he should have a diploma" quoted the evangelist. "I wish you would think tonight of how sin is robbing you, and you would not stay away from God."

The prodigal had to conquer pride, and it took his best courage to say, "I WILL arise and go;" likewise concludes the minister it take the very best grit in a wanderer to say I WILL return to the FATHER, but even as the prodigal was received by his father, God will welcome and Heaven will rejoice at the sinner's return.

CRIPPEN IS STILL AT LARGE

Scotland Yard Officials Are Baffled by Circumstantial Reports—Inquest Began.

London, July 18.—Notwithstanding circumstantial reports that Dr. Hawley H. Crippen had been seen at widely separated points, all of the supposed clues proved to be valueless and the London police are still without any tangible evidence that would be likely to lead to arrest.

The coroner's inquest began yesterday over the dismembered body, found buried in the cellar of the Crippen Hildrop Crescent residence, and which the police have associated with the disappearance of Crippen's wife, Belle Elmore. The testimony today proved to be of small service in establishing the identity, as the mass of flesh was so mutilated as to make it impossible for experts even to fix the sex of the victim.

After several witnesses had been examined relative to the finding of the body, the domestic relations of Dr. Crippen and wife, the occurrences at the Crippen home on the night of January 31, when Belle Elmore was last seen alive and the interrogations which Crippen later was subjected to by friends of the singer. The inquest was adjourned for one month.

The Scotland Yard officials are now of the opinion that Crippen and Ethel Levee, his former stenographer, and believed to be his companion when he disappeared from home July 9, may be aboard the steamer Kroonland, due at New York tomorrow night.

Effort to Rob Fredrick Bank.

Frederick, Ok., July 19.—An effort was made to rob a bank at Heldster, Ok., last night. Officers had been given a tip, and Sheriff Carter and two deputies were in waiting, capturing the two men after one had entered the bank by a window. One shot was fired by one of the men arrested, doing no harm. The men are in jail here.

EXECUTIVE BOARD LABOR FEDERATION

DENOUNCE MURRAY AND PLEDGE TO FIGHT HIS CANDIDACY FOR GOVERNOR.

Also, Legislative Committee, State Labor Federation and Ex-Officers of Farmers Union Join In.

Oklahoma City, July 19.—The executive board of the federation of labor, jointly with the legislative committee of that organization and J. A. West, former president of the Oklahoma Farmers' union, and O. H. Mathis, a former member of the executive board of the Farmers' union, Sunday, adopted resolutions denouncing Murray and pledging labor to fight his candidacy for governor in this campaign.

The labor leaders first revived a resolution that was passed at Ardmore, July 29, 1908, and followed that with a stronger denunciation of Murray's record. The resolutions call upon all fair-minded men to co-operate with the laboring men in this effort to defeat Murray in the primary election.

Union Labor is After Bill Murray.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the resolution adopted by the Ardmore convention of the Oklahoma State Federation of Labor with reference to Wm. H. Murray of Tishomingo, on July 29, 1908, to-wit: "Whereas, Speaker Wm. H. Murray of the house of representatives of Oklahoma, has by his own actions proved himself to be a representative of class interests instead of the interests of the masses; and,

"Whereas, his duplicity in connection with the graduated land tax bill, usuary bill, telegraphers' bill, child labor bill, the eight-hour bill, the full crew bill, and the bills known as 81a and 81b (relative to the labor department), and his opposition as well as his underhanded work to practically all legislation proposed in behalf of the agricultural and laboring masses shows conclusively that he was the representative of the corporations; and,

"Whereas, his gang rule as speaker of the house, and his disrespect shown ladies, has proven him to be a man destitute of honor and void of principle; therefore, be it

"Resolved, that the Oklahoma State Federation of Labor, in convention assembled, does hereby pronounce Wm. H. Murray as unfair to all union members everywhere, and we pledge our efforts and ballots to the end that he shall be defeated for any political office he may aspire to, and we shall regard any official or party that continue to boost William H. Murray as an enemy to the masses of Oklahoma."

"And whereas, there has been held since that date three sessions of said State Federation of Labor and the said resolutions have never been rescinded of the truth of the accusations therein contained questioned; therefore, be it

"Resolved by the executive board and the legislative committee of the State Federation of Labor in called session this 17th day of July, 1910, that the said Ardmore resolution is hereby reiterated and re-affirmed, that Mr. Murray's actions since that time have not been such as would convince this board and committee that he maintains a different attitude with reference to the interests of the farmers and laborers in Oklahoma; that while in his speeches throughout the state in his canvass for governor he has represented to the people that he supported every measure championed by the farmers and laborers, we call especial attention to the fact that the records show that he only voted for them after opposing them with all the ability at his command after he saw they were going to become laws, and in this connection we call attention to that section of the resolution which characterizes his duplicity in connection with the graduated land tax bill, usuary bill, telegraphers' bill, full crew bill, child labor bill, eight-

hour bill, the bill known as 81a and 81b, relative to labor department, and his opposition as well as his underhanded work to practically all legislation proposed in behalf of the agricultural and laboring masses, shows conclusively that he was a representative of the corporations.

"Resolved, further, that since it has always been the policy of the State Federation of Labor to support its friends, we deem it of even paramount importance that we condemn the conduct of such men as Wm. H. Murray, who is now an active candidate for governor on the democratic ticket, and that our influence is hereby pledged to his defeat in the coming primary election, and we earnestly solicit the co-operation of all fair-minded men who believe in the rule of the people. We also call especial attention to the conclusion of the said Ardmore resolution which states that the laboring people regard any organization or party which continues to boost Mr. Murray as an enemy of the masses of Oklahoma, and that we cannot render him our support under any circumstances.

"Oklahoma State Federation of Labor—

"C. C. Zeigler, president; C. E. Connally, J. D. Carr, Gus E. Koecker, J. S. Campbell, J. Luther Langston, Secretary-Treasurer; Executive Board "Lee Payne, chairman; George McConnell Jesse L. Day, Legislative Committee.

"Indorsed and concurred in by: "J. A. West, ex-Pres. State Farmers' union.

"O. H. Matthews, ex-member executive board State Farmers' Union.

"Tom Roach, ex-member executive board State Farmers' Union.

TO BAR THE FIGHT FILMS

SPECIAL SESSION IS CALLED

Solons of Lone Star State Will Repeal the Fire Insurance Rating Board Law.

Austin, Tex., July 19.—Governor Campbell today submitted to the state legislature, which convened in special session, a recommendation for a law prohibiting moving picture exhibitions of the Johnson-Jeffries fight.

It is probable that the measure will seek to debar the exhibition of all kinds of pugilistic encounters.

The governor says the display of the fight pictures would excite race feeling and probably result in disturbances.

The special session begins its work only four days before the democratic primaries, which will be held next Saturday throughout the state, as the culmination of a spirited and bitter campaign.

The specific purpose of the special session as named in the call is to repeal the fire insurance rating board law. It is charged by anti-prohibition leaders that the governor's real object is to forestall the possible election of O. B. Colquitt, the candidate of the anti-prohibition faction for governor by raising and bringing about the enactment of restrictive legislation that will practically put the saloons out of business in Texas.

Has Neck Broken in Dive.

Guthrie, Ok., July 19.—William Marquardt, a wealthy German land owner of Logan county, was instantly killed Sunday night at the "White City," a Cimarron river gathering resort near here. Marquardt, who is passed middle age, dived from a companion's shoulder in shallow water. His neck was broken. A few months ago, Marquardt and two brothers in Ohio inherited an estate in Germany worth $500,000.

COMMISSION LOWERS SWITCHING CHARGES

Railroads Protest on Ground of Increase Cost of Rolling Stock and Labor.

Guthrie, Ok., July 19.—All Oklahoma railroads appeared before the corporation commission today to protest against the commission's proposed order reducing switching charges from $2 to $5 per car to $1.50 $2, and $2.50 per car; according to the service. After conference of the representatives, a compromise proposition was submitted, the roads agreeing to a charge on the basis of $2, $2.50 and $3 per car. This has not been accepted.

Demands of Shippers.

W. T. Tyler of Springfield, Mo., general superintendent of the Frisco system, told the commission that the cost of switching had increased greater in proportion than had the charges for road work, and that the cost of switching equipment had like wise advanced. A few years ago, he said, a switch engine could be purchased for $7,000 but now they cost $15,000 and where cars with 40,000 to 60,000 pound capacity answered, shippers were now demanding 100,000 pound capacity cars.

The switching rate, he said had not been advanced, and when considered from the standpoint of tonnage had easily been reduced half. W. R. Beacom, general superintendent of the Rock Island, testified that the cost of switching was from $2.50 to $3 per car, although there were instances in large junctions where the minimum charge was $1.50 and elsewhere the maximum was $5 per car.

W. A. Durham of St. Louis, assistant to the general manager of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, stated that the recognized minimum charge between railroads was $2 per car, whether the railroads absorbed the cost or the shipper paid it, and to him this appeared to be a reasonable rate. All witnesses agreed that it was difficult to determine the cost since that was dependent upon the amount of business.

Entered as Second Class matter, March 26, 1904, at the Postoffice at Ada, Okla., under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

No negro without white blood in his veins has ever accomplished a single act that has made his name immortal. The skull of the pure negro closes between eighteen and twenty-two. The skull of the white man does not close until seventy. This explains why the negro boy is a fair competitor with his white classmates during school days but never accomplishes anything in after life. The brain of the white boy keeps on expanding, while that of the negro closes up. We must learn a lesson from history. Nature itself has fixed the status of the blackman, and nothing that we can do will change it. He is ignorant, brutal, superstitious and a slave to his passions. Abraham Lincoln said that it would be a crime to give him a vote. Oklahoma is peculiarly situated in the pathway of the black man in his migration to the North. He will stop where he obtains the most privileges, and if given the right to vote we may expect them here, and posterity will rise up and condemn us for our blindness and incapacity to grapple in a patriotic manner with as grave a proposition as is this—Alva Pioneer

"The negro is not so much trouble as you have heard," said a republican politician of the East side a few weeks since. "On election day we give the right man a little money, send him into a negro precinct and the negroes all vote as they are told." A beautiful situation, indeed, where one ward-heeler can take $1 and by hearing fifty negroes—some of whom can read—can nullify the votes of fifty university graduates.

There are several thousand former Kansans in Oklahoma who will vote on the "Grandfather Clause" on August 2nd. They should remember that when a constitutional amendment giving negroes the right to vote was submitted to the people of Kansas in 1867 it was voted down by a majority of 8,938. This was done when Kansas was solidly republican and there were hardly enough democrats in the state to fill a jury box.

No one will be disfranchised by the Grandfather Clause but illiterate negroes and the descendants of negro slaves. The man who says it will disfranchise you is telling you that your veins run negro blood. If you are disfranchised, you are a negro. If you are not a negro, you will not be disfranchised.

Abernathy Boys' Horses Returned. Frederick, Ok., July 19.—P. O. Valentine of New York City arrived here with the horses which Temple and Louise Abernathy, sons of United States Marshal John R. Abernathy, recently rode from Oklahoma to New York to see Col. Roosevelt return home. It is expected that Abernathy will arrive here at least a week ahead of his sons, who are returning in an automobile.

WOMAN THROWN FROM BUGGY IS DRAGGED TO DEATH. Snyder, Ok., July 19.—Mrs. John Terrell, aged 35 years, wife of a farmer living near Cold Springs, was thrown from her buggy by a runaway horse and dragged a mile over the country roads. Her foot caught on the top and her body fell beneath the buggy. She was killed. Her 8-year-old daughter was thrown from the buggy, but escaped uninjured.

PERFECTS A COTTON PICKER

Machine's Brushes Will Take Ripe Cotton Without Hurting the Plant.

Washington, July 19.—Patents were issued Tuesday to Crawford Elliott, the inventor of the book type-writer, on a cotton picker or harvester which he has perfected as the result of nearly seven years' constant effort. The basic patent granted covers forty different claims. The machine has been tested for two years in the cotton fields, and with it one man and a team of mules will do the work of forty hand pickers. Only the ripe cotton is picked, and this is done without injury to the green cotton or the flowers.

The principle of the machine is a double row of bristle brushes about one and one-half inches in diameter and fourteen inches long, spinning rapidly in such a manner that the revolving brushes are introduced into the plants close to the ground and drawn up in a vertical line through the plants, the brushes penetrating the bushes from both sides of the row. The ripe cotton adheres to the brushes while the rest of the plant is not in any way affected, the brushes traveling to a receptacle where they are stripped of the cotton and the operation is repeated.

It has been thoroughly tested and demonstrated that it will do the work at a quarter of the cost of hand labor, which means a saving of $150,000,000 a year to the cotton growers.

NO CAPITAL DECISION AS YET

It May Come in a Day or Two or Not For a Week.

Guthrie, Okla., July 19.—There was no decision of the supreme court today in the capital case, nor was one expected by those interested in the case. The supreme court met today as usual, passed upon a number of motions and heard arguments in several cases but there was no mention of the capital removal case.

The following statement may be taken as from a high source and correct. "There may be a decision in the capital removal case next court day (which is Tuesday, July 26) but it is by no means certain. It may be later. There is, of course, a possibility that decision may come down sooner, within the next day or so, but this is very unlikely according to present circumstances."

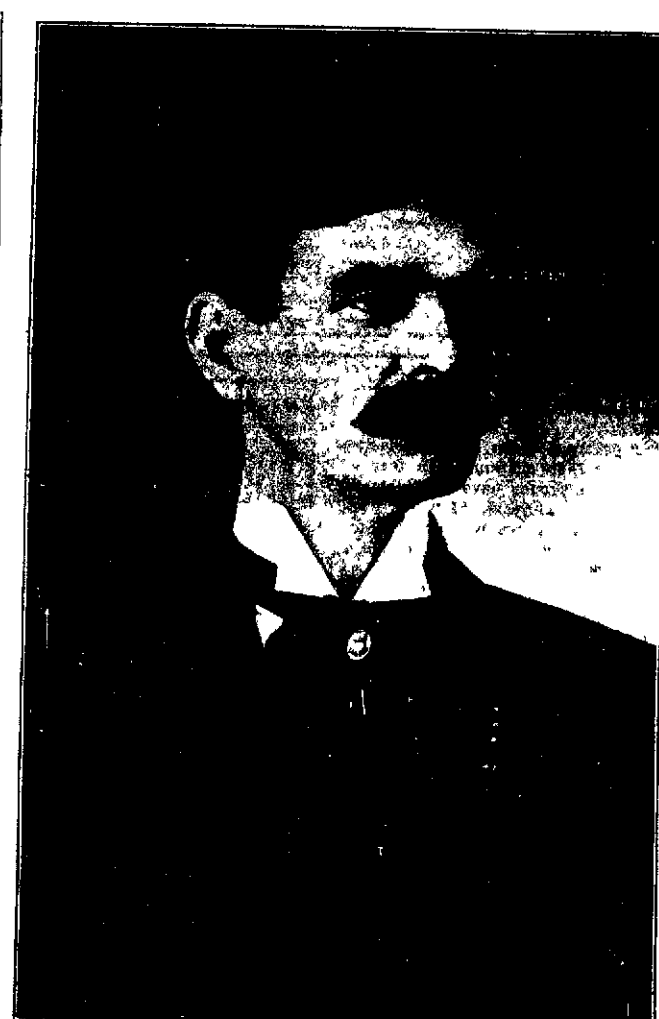

What the court is doing and will do is being anxiously discussed here, as well as down at Oklahoma City, and already stories are afloat alleging that the court has decided in favor of Guthrie, has decided in favor of Oklahoma City, is divided two and three, or vice versa.

CONGRESSMAN SCOTT FERRIS ON "GRANDFATHER CLAUSE"

"The Amendment affects no Indian or white man within the state. This is not a new law. It prevails in rock-ribbed republican Maine, it exists in a great many of the states—it is just—it is right—it ought to exist everywhere. It is the solemn duty of every voter to actively engage in its adoption. It means a higher class of citizenship. It will lead up to nobler and better deeds. It will dispense justice and good results to all. It will place the right to vote out of reach of no industrious man. Schools are free to all with no exceptions, hence this amendment leaves the right to vote as free as the water that flows. A reasonable regulation is a blessing rather than a burden. It will WITHHOLD THE BALLOT FROM THOSE BLACKS who are uneducated until the weeds of ignorance, indolence and idleness have been unrooted and safely transplanted in their stead, the wholesome germ of education, understanding and industry. BE NOT DECEIVED BY FALSE AND SCANDALOUS REPORTS WHICH HAVE NO FOUNDATION IN FACT. The adoption of this amendment will be wholesome in effect, for all the citizens of this state."

BARTLESVILLE INJUNCTION HAS BEEN DISMISSED

Bartlesville, Ok., July 19.—The injunction that restrained the Bartlesville Interurban company from furnishing light and power to the people of the city has been dissolved at the request of the light and water company. This fight has lasted a year. The interurban company had been granted a franchise for the purpose asked, but could not take a step in that direction pending the determination of the suit upon which the injunction was based.

Married in Shawnee.

We have it from reliable authority that Wm. Felter, former editor of the Wigwam and now head push on the Roff Eagle, quietly threw off the weeds of widowhood at Shawnee, Sunday, June 26, and was united in holy bonds of wedlock with Miss Mary Mahan, who for some time past has served the public in the capacity of assistant in the Sasakwa postoffice. Both the contracting parties are social favorites in Sasakwa. They are to be congratulated upon the happy ending of "love's sweet dream," but the Wigwam, like the rest of their friends, thinks it "real mean" of them to get married and not tell their friends any thing about it so long. We solemnly warn them never, never to do the likes of that again.—Francis Wigwam.

STUBBLEFIELD-MASON

Dinner for Bridal Party.

Mrs. C. Stubblefield served dinner Tuesday evening to the bridal party.

The house was decorated with pot plants and cut flowers. The dining room was beautiful in yellow, nasturtiums being the principal flowers used for the table. The wedding bell was suspended over an immense cut glass vase of yellow carnations in the center of the table, the streamers from the bell to the four corners of the table were finished with large bows.

Mrs. Torbett ushered the party into the dining room, where their places were designated by dainty hand-painted place cards.

A four-course dinner was served; the first course, ambrosia in orange halves with cherry phosphate; second, salad course; third, fried chicken with cream gravy, potato chips and hot rolls; fourth, lemon snow and angel food.

The twelve served were: Mr. B. H. Mason and Miss Lula Stubblefield; Misses Glays and Estelle Torbett, Mason, Mrs. Torbett, Mrs. Kenton and Messrs. Boston, of Oklahoma City, Haraway, Maddox and Gilbreath.

Several hundred of Ada's social and polite people, being friends of Miss Lula Stubblefield or Mr. B. H. Mason, usually both, always the best well wishers of each assembled at the First Baptist church this morning at 9.30 o'clock where their marriage was witnessed.

Mr. A. A. Boston, a personal friend of Mr. Mason, and a florist of Oklahoma City, had decorated the church with beautiful palms and cut flowers.

Just before the party entered, Mrs. Hattie Prewitt Kenton, of Durant, sang "Beloved It Is Mine." Mrs. Kenton has a magnificent voice.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Mrs. S. M. Torbett, the party entered: Messrs. Maddox and Gilbreath, ushers; Miss Mason, "maid of honor," with Mr. G. H. Boston; Miss Estelle Torbett, bride's maid, with Mr. Ed Haraway. Violet Moore, the little cupid, preceded Miss Stubblefield and Mr. Mason.

The bride was beautiful in a gown of white lace over satin and a large white hat. She carried a bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor and bride's maid wore white lingerie gowns with back sashes of pink and black picture hats, carrying bouquets of pink roses. Little cupid was perfect in white with pink ribbons. She held a pink rose, in which was hidden the wedding ring.

It was a ring ceremony and every feature of which from the manner and dignity of the entrance of the bride and groom and attendants to the conclusion, when sweet little Violet Moore released the wedding ring where it lay imbedded in the petals of the rose she held slightly aloft and was taken by the minister, and with appropriate reference handed it to the bridegroom who sealed the marriage by delicately placing on the finger of the beautiful bride.

It was a beautiful marriage, the bride, her maid of honor, and bridesmaid, being beautiful young women, exquisitely attired and of faultless part throughout; the bridegroom and gentleman attendants, strong, handsome, replete in regulation fashion's attire were entirely equal to the interesting occasion.

While the eyes could have feasted and interest remained long intent on the attractive appearance of the bridal party, there was a slightly elevated view and a more profound feeling when the Rev. C. Stubblefield, beloved minister, the father of the bride, came forward and in dignified, impressive, almost tremulous manner at times pronounced the ceremony which gave into another's keeping, the daughter, which he so devotedly loved.

Several intimate friends, well-wishers of the bride and groom, followed the party over to the residence to extend congratulations and say goodbye. A lively piano rendition by Mr. Boston soon drove the tears away and everybody was merry and happy.

A number of friends were at the station when Mr. and Mrs. Mason departed over the Katy for Kansas City, where they will spend several days before visiting Mr. Mason's mother and sisters at Appleton City. They will spend the month of August at a popular summer resort in Missouri.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason will be at home in Ada, for a while at least, after the first of September. They will have many useful and handsome remembrances from friends, in their new home, for the bride received a large number of presents in cut glass, silver ware, hand-painted china, linen, etc. She was very popular in Durant where she grew to womanhood when her father was pastor there, and her friends from that city remembered her with numerous and very handsome presents. We could publish the list of presents but they were so numerous that space forbids.

Miss Stubblefield has resided in Ada since the assumption by her father of the charge of the First Baptist church. She was devoted to her father's church and contributed much toward the popularity of the choir. Miss Stubblefield was a rarely beautiful young lady, was deservedly the idol of her home and was sincerely popular with her associates.

Mr. B. H. Mason, the bridegroom, until lately, when he resigned on account of ill health, was cashier of the M. & P. bank. He was exceptionally popular with his associates, was a good fellow to the utmost and a gentleman of integrity and recognized business qualifications.

Mrs. Hattie Prewitt Kenton, who has been the guest of her friend, Miss Stubblefield for a week prior to the wedding, returned to her home at Durant today, leaving on the Katy with the bride and groom.

Mr. G. H. Boston, of Oklahoma City, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Mason to Atoka, returning on the afternoon train to his home at Oklahoma City. Miss Lyda Mason, after a few weeks visit to her brother, B. H. Mason, left this morning for her home at Appleton City, Mo.

Mrs. G. H. Bruce of Ardmore, a long time friend of Rev. and Mrs. Stubblefield came over to attend the wedding. She is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Torbett.

Mrs. Ode Colbert and children, who were up from Durant to attend the wedding, will remain over with her father, Rev. Stubblefield until tomorrow.

Mrs. J. A. Baldwin of Duncan, who intended to arrive yesterday to be present at her sister's wedding, but missed connection with the O. C. at Chickasha, did not reach Ada until this afternoon. She will spend a few days with her father, Rev. Stubblefield.

MY DOCTOR MIGHTY FINE

Mrs. Mattie Cain of Carrsville Thinks all the More of Her Doctor Since He Advised Her to Take Cardui.

Carrsville, Ky.—"My doctor," writes Mrs. Mattie Cain, "who advised me to take Cardui, for my troubles, is a mighty fine doctor, and I say God bless Cardui and the people who make it."

"Before I took Cardui, I suffered with female troubles for sixteen years. I would have to send for a doctor every three months, and oh! how dreadfully I suffered!"

"I would cramp and have convulsions and it looked like I would die. At last I took Cardui and oh! what a surprise! I found it was the medicine for me!"

"From the first bottle, I began to mend and now I am well, can do more work, can walk and go where I please and it doesn't hurt me, and I owe it all to Cardui."

Cardui helps sick women back to health. It has been doing this for over 50 years. It is not a laxative, or a heart or kidney medicine—it is a woman's medicine.

If you are a woman, try it.

CROP PROSPECTS VERY FLATTERING

INDICATIONS POINT TO THE BEST IN HISTORY OF THE COUNTY.

The consensus of opinion of conservative business men and farmers who are conversant with crop conditions throughout the county, is that prospects were never better. Crops have received more thorough cultivation and a greater per cent of land in cultivation than ever before. The increase in acreage this year will not be less than fifteen per cent greater than last year, while it is estimated that conditions are estimated to be from 20 to 50 per cent better. With a great deal more land in cultivation, with prospects for yield never better, nothing short of disaster now will prevent Pontotoc county from having its history making "bumper crop."

Corn is practically matured at present and the yield per acre on an average over the county, placed at conservative figures will be thirty-five bushels—even if there should not be another rain, while a good rain fall at the right time would be of great benefit in helping "fill out" the ears and making them full and heavy. Some farmers report they will make as high as seventy bushels per acre as the crop now stands, but that is away above the average.

Oats have been cut and are threshing out from 45 to 60 bushels per acre, with a good acreage planted.

Cotton is blooming, the stalk is well formed and fruiting heavily. Not many are willing to make an estimate on the cotton yield, because of the many disasters that could yet come to cotton. However, most all think a half bale per acre is assured now if no calamity befalls the crop.

The eastern part of the county has received more rain than the western, but no section can be said to have suffered. In many respects the dry weather was a benefit to farmers. It gave them opportunity to till the soil thoroughly, and caused them to give distance to the plants, thereby insuring a strong vigorous growth.

To sum up the situation as best one can without statistics to base calculations on, it may be expressed as follows: No land is idle this year; there is 15 or 20 per cent increase in acreage over last year; crops have been better worked and promise a greater yield this year than ever before.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Ada women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders.

Can Ada sufferers desire stronger proof than this woman's words? "Mrs. H. L. Sadler, of Coalgate, Ok., says: 'Doan's Kidney Pills did more for me than any other kidney remedy I ever used. I suffered for more than three years from kidney disease in a severe form. My back ached constantly and there were dull, bearing down pains through my loins. I was also subject to dizzy spells and at times my sight became blurred. When the attacks were at their height, I was helpless and had to sit down. I doctored and tried everything I could think of in the hope of finding relief, but I was only helped temporarily. Finally I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and shortly after beginning their use, I received a complete cure.'"

MAJOR SAM TORRETT RETURNS FROM REUNION OF ELKS

Major Sam Torbett, a member of the grand lodge of Elks has returned from the reunion of the "Bills" the greatest social organization on earth which has just concluded a three days' session at Detroit, Michigan.

Mr. Torbett usually co-incides his vacation with the time of the national meeting of the Grand Lodge of Elks. He left home on the 8th inst., a little ahead of the regular Elks' train out of Oklahoma City, and went direct to St. Louis, and from there to Chicago at which places he transacted business, and from there to Detroit, which he reached on the evening of the 11th, ready for the three days' reunion, which began on the morning of the 12th. When the reunion was concluded, instead of returning home with the southern Elks, he joined those of the north, together with a small party of southerners, and visited Niagara Falls and Buffalo on Friday and Saturday the 15th and 16th insts. Major Sam states that he enjoyed the visit to Niagara thoroughly. It was from Detroit to Niagara that he had first traveled in a foreign country, proceeding for a long distance through Canada. Being asked as to the difference between the appearances of the country of the far north and this country at this season of the year, more especially as to crops and vegetation, he stated: "That naturally all such growths were much later, and that the corn was not more than one foot in height, that it was a great wheat and stock country."

Referring further to Niagara he said, "While it was a beautiful city, principally of magnificent hotels, it was Niagara that afforded the great attraction, and the great gorge route enabled one to enjoy the whirl pools falls and rapids to the utmost. The great gorge route almost surrounds the falls and gives you every vantage point of view. The length of the famous route is about twenty-five miles."

This fellow-townman expressed gladness to be at home again with his family and among his friends. He felt grateful that the late rain fall had principally insured crops.

DR. BOBBY AND NURSE IRENE

By BRYANT C. ROGERS

Bobby Shattuck's first patient was a big Irishman, as drunk as a lord. He tumbled into the new office with his hands up to a very bloody head, as if he had to hold it on. "Get me a doctor!" he groaned, and Bobby, poor fellow, was so overjoyed to have a real patient, with a real scalp wound to sew up, that he treated that Irishman like a prince.

The patient appreciated it, as was evident when he took his departure. He got out a large red handkerchief and began to cry into it. "The worst of it is," he sobbed, "I've no money for you—nothing but a heart-r full of love! But that's better than any money."

True, no doubt. But just then Bobby really preferred being paid in base coin. He did wonder sometimes, afterward, if that first fee were a sort of omen, for he did not get rich rapidly. He had a few patients that paid, but it seemed to him as if everybody that couldn't pay came to him begging his help.

He had been in practice about a year one morning when he stood on the street corner near his office thinking it all over. Sixteenth street was crowded with women out shopping and all at once he felt a familiar pull at his heart strings and he knew Irene Louise was near. He really knew her so slightly that he had no right to have a pull at the heart strings.

But she was always very sweet with him. Her face flashed into a smile as she passed him.

"Oh, Doctor Shattuck!" she said. "If you aren't too busy professionally come out to Court place some Friday evening."

"Thank you," said Bobby Shattuck. "I—thank you."

And just then Billy Calkins happened along and saw the kindling eyes of Bobby. "You, too!" exclaimed Billy.

"I don't know what you mean," said Bobby coldly.

"I suppose you think you're doing something original."

"I'm still more in the dark."

"Then—since you're obtuse—let's talk of something else—Irene Louise Paxton, for instance. She, Robert, has had 1,300 offers this month, as near as I can calculate."

"One from you?"

"Bet your sweet life, no. And Doc, askin', your pardon, I don't think it would be much use for you to propose, either."

"I see myself proposing to a girl," said Bobby, bitterly, "let alone an heiress."

"She isn't an heiress," asserted Billy. "She's a plain beauty. No, not a plain one, a beauty. She lives with an old woman who has nothing to leave her—her aunt, it is. They say the girl doesn't even have pocket money. So you see, Doc, she's got to marry at least a million. I tell you this because I fear you are going to get hit hard."

Bobby went back to his office and as there was nothing to do, he sat reading a magazine for a while. Much good it did him to go into society! The rich would ask him to call, but when they were ill they sent for somebody else.

As he reflected grimly on his affairs the telephone jingled and he answered it.

"Is this Doctor Shattuck?" a voice asked.

"This is Doctor Shattuck," answered Bobby.

"Can you come out to 17 Court place right away, doctor?"

"Seventeen Court place"—the address actually frightened poor Bobby—for he was called to the most fashionable quarter of the city, and he threw a few things into a medicine case, and in five minutes he was speeding southward on a trolley.

Suddenly his heart did a funny little jump, then set off at the rate of a dollar watch that is out of fix. He knew that number. It was hers. "Buss—zip!" his heart went, and didn't bring up—with a bump—till they had reached the end of the trolley line.

Hurrying through Court place he saw massive homes with deep doorways finished in marble and gardeners busy preparing the shrubbery for winter. To the south—dark blue, crinkled with wind, dotted here and there with gay little sails—shimmered the lake. It was all very fine. No doubt she had set her heart on having such an establishment. No doubt! Bobby ought to have hated her for her mercenary soul, as Billy Calkins did, but somehow he couldn't seem to hate her for anything. He only wondered, as he pulled the bell, if it was she who had been taken ill.

As soon as the door opened into the large reception hall in fluttered Miss Paxton herself.

"Oh, Doctor Shattuck!" she exclaimed, "how good of you to come at once. The patient is a very poor woman who used to be our cook. I'll take you there in the machine."

She seemed embarrassed as she laid her hand on his sleeve.

"I wanted to say that cook is very poor. I've been nursing her myself, but I felt as if we needed a doctor." She swallowed hastily, and lifted her eyes. "I—of course I wish I could ask that the bill be sent to me, but I haven't any money of my own at all. And you were the only doctor I felt

ad to say.

Mrs. Golightly's Lesson

"Now, dear, I'll teach you how to play chess," said Mr. Golightly, as he settled himself for the evening. "Get the board and men, and you may bring my pipe, too."

"It's so nice of you to be willing to show me—"

"Of course, my dear, you know it is a man's game—it really takes brain to play a good game of chess. I hope you can master it enough to make a game interesting to me some time."

"Yes, dear," answered his wife, meekly.

"Now, Mrs. Golightly, you can't play chess with the board at an angle of 45 degrees."

"Degrees of what?"

"Fahrenheit. Get a higher chair and put your mind on the game."

"I like this rocker; it's comfortable."

"It's against all rules of chess to keep fidgeting."

"I'll put a book on my lap. I've been studying the rules, but I didn't see anything about fidgeting."

Here the book slipped and the board was only saved by the quick action of Mr. Golightly.

"If you think this a 'shoot the chutes,' you are mistaken," he said, severely. "My idea is to teach you chess—if possible."

"I'll get a higher chair," she said, assuming the expression of an early Christian martyr. "I learned how to set the men out of the book, only I want to play with the white ones, 'cause I've been practicing with them."

"What has the color to do with the game? Now I move—so."

Perfect silence for a few minutes.

"It's your move, dear," said Mrs. Golightly.

"Don't I know it? A man has to stop to think; he doesn't play any old thing. This isn't 'give away.'"

"Then why do you put your castle where I can take it?"

"Because I was trying to show you the game, and I have to talk so much—"

"I thought you said it required silence!"

"It does, unless you are playing with a woman." Here Golightly started to take one of her men.

"Oh, wait, I haven't taken my fingers off yet. I don't think I'll move it there. I'll move it here and check your king."

"Very nice, only you can't jump across the board that way. Check to your queen."

"Too bad. I must take your queen. I guess you didn't see my bishop. Do you want me to take it back?"

"I don't play the baby act. If I hadn't been talking to you I should not have moved there."

Mrs. Golightly swept the queen from the board, and left two men in jeopardy.

"Ahem! I was watching your side—"

"I should think you'd watch your own. I do. It isn't your move."

"Yes, it is."

"No, you moved, and I took your queen and then you—"

"Don't get excited. Keep your temper—if you can. You make more fuss than you would buying a new bonnet," snarled Mr. Golightly.

"I think I am playing well enough to beat you just the same."

"Certainly when I have to work for us both. You may be able to beat a donkey—"

"That's what I said," grinned Mrs. Golightly. "Oh!" she shrieked, plunging through an unguarded space. "I'm going to take your king."

"Put that man down," yelled Golightly. "You can't take a king. You don't understand the first rudiments of the game—after all my teaching—"

"But he is so he can't move—"

"That would be checkmate—only I can move here."

"No you can't. My man guards that!"

"Well, if you can't play a simple game of chess without yelling like a Comanche—"

"What's a Comanche? Anyway, you can't move."

And Golightly looked what he wanted to say.

STATE CAPITAL COMMISSION

GOVERNOR MAY NAME MEMBERS
THIS WEEK WHETHER SUPREME COURT HAS RENDERED DECISION OR NOT.

Tate Brady of Tulsa, J. B. A. Robertson of Chandler and Dr. Leo Bennett of Muskogee Sited.

Oklahoma City, Ok., July 20.—Gov. Haskell stated today that he would probably announce appointments of the state capital commission after Monday morning, or when the additional land options connected with the contemplated removal of the state capital are placed before him in legal shape. Two new options have been submitted since the day of the election. Current rumor in the hotel lobbies gives places on the commission to Tate Brady of Tulsa, J. B. A. Robertson of Chandler and Dr. Leo Bennett of Muskogee, the last named being the republican member; however, the Governor declined to confirm this list when seen today. The positions pay $4,000 per year. The appointments are to be made, it is understood irrespective of whether the Supreme Court has by that time rendered its decision upon the governor's application for a writ of prohibition against the Logan county district court. The governor has been advised, it is stated, by attorneys that the executive department is not within the jurisdiction of the judicial department of the state in exercising political functions.

One of the most brilliant receptions of the season was tendered him at the club-rooms tonight.

REVOKES ALL NIGHT LICENSE OF N. Y. CAFES

Major of New York Investigates Conditions of Night Life in Secret Visits.

New York, July 20.—It became known today Mayor Gaynor's last crusade against the granting of all-night license to cafes and restaurants in the uptown theatre district was the result of an incognito tour into night cafe life which the Mayor made about a week ago. According to the story which came out today the Mayor in conversation at a Brooklyn club late one night heard from an acquaintance a vivid account of some strange scenes witnessed in an all-night cafe in the so-called "white light district." The Mayor interrupted the narrator to say that he could hardly believe such things could be true. To decide whether they were or not he decided to go at once on a tour of inspection after the fashion of Harroun Ralschaid, the romantic hero of "Arabian Nights." The offer was accepted and in the Mayor's automobile the two made a rapid tour of the night cafe district, dropping at a number of the best known places. The Mayor, according to the story, wore a slouch hat and was not recognized. A day or two later the Mayor revoked the all-night licenses of several well known restaurants and announced that he would not allow the issuance of license except to those that catered to legitimate trade of night workers.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

While driving along Broadway about five o'clock yesterday afternoon Prof. Melton with Misses Jeannette Erwin and Mamie White, happened to an almost serious accident.

From some unknown cause the horse Prof. Melton was driving became frightened and ran plunging and kicking down Main street. Miss Erwin in endeavoring to get out of the buggy was thrown violently to the ground—but fortunately sustained no serious injury. Miss White and Mr. Melton remained in the buggy until the plunging animal truck the barriers at Broadway and Main, making a sharp turn and pitching them over board. Neither of them was hurt seriously.

The horse tore loose from the vehicle and dashed back up Broadway. Aside from breaking the shafts and harness, and the general fright no further damage was done.

Within a few minutes the excitement had abated, and Miss Erwin was heard to calmly ask Miss White, "Shall we go to see the pictures now?"

"But why did you try to get out?" asked some one "I was afraid the horse would go to kicking," was the logical answer.

The bystanders were of one opinion that the horse imitated kicking very nicely for a few minutes, at least.

THE INSECURITY OF EARTHLY THINGS

THE HOLY CITY A PLACE OF INFINITE BEAUTY, A POPULAR PLACE, HOMELIKE, AND AN ETERNAL CITY.

The subject of last evening's services was "The Holy City." This evening Rev. Hendrick will preach on the "Unpardonable Sin" and Rev. Carter will sing, "What Would You Do If the Door Were Shut."

Last evening was indeed one of the greatest so far in the series of services.

The evangelists pictured the Holy City in prose and poetry, story and song. Rev. Hendrick read Revelation the twenty-first chapter, saying "With these verses before us, I wish to talk about the Holy City." Continuing he pointed to the fact that the history of the world is, merely the history of its cities, calling to mind the instability and insecurity of all earthly cities, both ancient and modern. The cities of the ancients have crumbled into decay and passed from the earth, likewise, the minister would impress his hearers that the great cities of today will inevitably live only in history.

We have no city that will endure, all earthly things are insecure. Houses, lands, money, nothing is permanent—spoke the evangelist. There is nothing here to stay. You are not here to stay. I am not here to stay—none are here to stay.

Rev. Hendrick, when he had related how a prosperous merchant had advertised that he was "here to stay" but passed away as others do.

"The speaker pleaded with the unsaved to board the ship of Zion for the Holy City, where things are permanent, safe and secure forever more and not wait until opportunity had knocked and gone.

Speaking of who should enter the gates if pearl, he said, "truly, that nothing unclean would enter there."

He believes that heaven is a popular place and that great crowds are marching heavenward. "Everybody likes to see the crowd, be with the crowd and if you want to get into the best crowd in the world get into the crowd marching heavenward" admonished the expounder of God's word. He continued, "I love not only to think of heaven as a popular place, but as a busy place." He seemed to think that if one could do great work here he would be given an opportunity to do even greater things in the Holy City. And that old drudgery, worry, failure, disappointment, want, human ills and sorrow will be unknown.

The little children will be there, loved ones there and heaven will be a place of sweet, unalloyed eternal happiness.

He points to the Holy City as a city eternal, and one attainable. Everybody can go there if they would. The earnest divine made an eloquent plea to have more heaven on earth, and for all to prepare to enjoy eternity in the City Beautiful.

The little children will be there, loved ones there and heaven will be a place of sweet, unalloyed eternal happiness.

SENATOR GORE ON GRANDFATHER CLAUSE

"This amendment is clearly within the purview and limitation of the fifteenth amendment. We do not go as far as Massachusetts has gone. We do not follow the example of Connecticut, California, Minnesota and Wisconsin, which in 1858 absolutely defeated negro suffrage altogether. Ohio, in 1867, voted down an amendment for negro suffrage by more than 50,000 majority. Kansas, the same year, rejected the same amendment by 8,988. In 1871 a republican congress, with the approval of President Grant abolished the local government in the District of Columbia in order to get rid of negro domination. The reason for this action was forcibly stated by Col. McClure, one of the fathers and founders of the republican party, and an intimate friend of President Lincoln, when he said, 'A very few years made it an imperative necessity for congress to disfranchise the entire people of the District of Columbia solely to escape the ignorant and profligate rule of the negro. The same republican authority that had enfranchised the negro under the shade of the nation's capital was compelled to declare that his disfranchisement had become an imperative necessity to protect property and maintain social order. The southern states which have by ingenious constitutional devices practically disfranchised the negro, have simply followed the teaching of a republican congress and president which disfranchised him in the capital city.'"

"The democrats do not believe that ignorance should misrule intelligence, or that vice should misgovern virtue. Nine tenths of the republicans in Oklahoma agree with the democrats on this proposition. The negroes hold the balance of power in fourteen counties today, and will soon hold the balance of power in fourteen more. Wagoner has 1,724; Logan, 1,957; Oklahoma 2,121, and Muskogee, 3,179.

"Race riots have been worse on the east side since the ballot came to the negro than before. Recent bloody events shed an ominous and lurid light upon the gravity of the situation. We must act soon or we act too late. Every white man should vote for the suffrage amendment, on August 2.

"The alarming feature of the republican attitude on the election law is the fact that it gives conclusive proof that the republicans would, if they could, repeal the Jim Crow car law. THE SAME SPIRIT THAT WOULD RETAIN THE MIXED BALLOT BOX WOULD RESTORE THE MIXED CAR."

Senator Owen says: "The language is so plain that no analysis of the grandfather clause seems to be needed. With certain exceptions it denies the suffrage to any person who is not able to read and write any section of the constitution of the state of Oklahoma. It is equally plain that it does not include within its provisions any person who, on January 1, 1866, or prior thereto, was entitled to vote under any form of government, or who, at that time, resided in some foreign nation, and their descendants. effect of this is to allow Indians and white, who cannot read and write the constitution, to vote, and EXCLUDES NEGROES WHO CANNOT VOTE. This provision will take care of old federal and confederate soldiers whose education was prevented by the war.

ROFF PREPARING FOR TWO DAYS PICNIC

Roff is preparing to hold a two days picnic at the Lucy Bennette park on the 29th and 30th of this month. There will be a band to furnish music; and, in fact, every attraction from a balloon ascension to catching a greased pig will be in evidence.

The gubernatorial candidates are invited to be present and speak. Judges Raibey, West and McKeown are on program; and all county and district candidates are cordially invited to be present.

An old fiddlers' contest which promises a great deal of entertainment will be participated in by the old fiddlers of the county.

PATTEN CLOSING DEALS IN COTTON

IS THOUGHT TO BE WITHDRAWING FROM THE MARKET ENTIRELY

New York, July 20.—James A. Patten of Chicago arrived here today and is closing the balance of his deals in cotton. Mr. Patten's commitments have already been greatly reduced, and it is thought that he expects to liquidate the balance of his holdings of spot cotton by the end of this month.

It is also stated that Mr. Patten has cleared up all his transactions, in wheat, having sold out the balance of his holdings last Monday. Whether or not Mr. Patten will re-enter the wheat or cotton market on an extensive scale is not definitely known. But the impression among his friends is that he will not engage in active speculation in either of these staples for some time to come, in any event.

FIFTY CENTS PER PUPIL IS SCHOOL APPORTIONMENT

Guthrie, Ok., July 20.—The semi-annual common school apportionment of July 1 will be 50c per pupil. According to the scholastic census there are 518,084 children of age, with $259,042 available with the school land department for apportionment. The division agreed upon tomakes the annual apportionment for 1910 $1.50 per pupil. The 1906 Territorial apportionment was $1.742 for 225,945 pupils, or about 15c each, and the year following it was $33.935.70, or nearly 17c per pupil.

Mrs. L. A. Ellison left this morning for a visit to Durant and Caddo.

Land Sale Controversy Settled.
Oklahoma City, Ok., July 20.—A controversy between the school land lessees and the state school land commission, involving the basis of valuation that should be placed on improvements, has been settled. The commission is now pushing to completion plans for reopening the sale of the lands. There are yet to be sold about 1,650,000 acres, of which 600,000 are agricultural lands with preferred right privileges. These lands are situated largely in the western and northwestern parts of the state and are to be sold at auction on forty years' time, the sale in each county being made at the court house door on certain advertised days. The sale was to have been resumed Aug. 15, but it probably will be Sept. 1 before plans are perfected. Part of the state school lands were sold last winter, but the sale was stopped on account of the commission's appropriation being exhausted.

HON. JAS. A. NORMAN, THE CHEROKEE, IN TOWN

THE ORIGINAL SEQUOYAH MAN.

CANDIDATE FOR CORPORATION COMMISSIONER

Hon. Jas. A. Norman, of Muskogee, candidate for democratic nomination
as a member of the State Corporation Commission, was in the city during the day. Mr. Norman is well known throughout Oklahoma and possesses a personal acquaintance with nearly all the citizens of the Cherokee Nation.
He first became prominent as the original advocate of Sequoyah, drawing the draft of the call for the Sequoyah Constitutional Convention.
He was secretary of the regular Sequoyah movement. Mr. Norman is 1-16 Cherokee, is a prolific writer and is especially well versed in the history of his people.

The News was very glad to receive a call from this fellow democrat and invited him to make some references to his candidacy for publication. He said:

"I find my candidacy here is favorable with the people, and I would like for the people of the state in the five congressional districts when they come to cast their vote for the state officers to look to the interests of the democratic party and vote in order that they will place the state officers over the state general in the several congressional districts in a manner that will give universal satisfaction
to the democratic party."

I find that the First Congressional district has eight candidates for state offices and the second has seven, the third has only four, the fourth has seventeen and the fifth has eleven.

The Third Congressional district has 30,000 democratic voters; the northern half of the state has 16,000 more democratic voters than the southern has. I would ask each and every democratic voter of the state to consider this matter when they go to the polls to vote on the 2nd day of August and scatter these state officers over the Congressional districts in order that they may give satisfaction to the democrats of the state. In the third district there are only three offices being represented by four candidates. I will have one opponent in my district,
and if the democrats will give us
these three offices, the third district will feel satisfied.

I will further add that it is not necessary for the democratic voters to place on the Corporation Board a practicing attorney, but the kind of representation that should be on the board should be composed of common-sense, level headed, practical business men of experience, they will give more universal satisfaction to the general interests of the state than the practicing lawyers.

I stand for: Two-cent railroad fare;
for reasonable freight rates; for the guarantee law; for the grandfather clause; for equal justice and protection to all, special privileges to none.

MA. EBEL'S CANDIDACY VIEWED WITH FAVOR

Hon. W. H. Ebey, candidate for Insurance Commissioner, is being heard from as he cuts through the state in the interest of his candidacy. He is 21 years residence in Oklahoma; always associated with its more important affairs in a manner which has awarded him wide and favorable acquaintance, is making his canvas natural and easy.

Mr. Braley, Mr. Ebey's business associate, states that the nature and extent of the letters of return to those of notice of Mr. Ebey's candidacy from all sections of the state indicate all that is desirable.

Mr. Ebey is a home man and should receive the solid support of Pontotoc County.

Mr. J. T. Foot, manager of the Durant Nursery Company, one of the most prosperous ones in the state, is here this week with headquarters at the Chapman hotel.

SECURE FREE DELIVERY

It is remarkable that Ada, a city of nearly 6,000 souls, whose annual postal receipts are sufficient to entitle it to free delivery and its sidewalks ample to accommodate the carriers, should not have earlier secured a complete directory and enforced the numbering of all houses.

Domestic Financiering

The only light in the room was that of the flames. It was just the right setting to invite confession.

"Now tell me all about him," said
the young married woman to the engaged girl, as she stirred the fire.

"Oh, he's perfectly lovely," began the engaged girl.

"Of course," interrupted the young married woman. "He is so much like my Jack."

"Oh, he isn't a bit like Jack—"

"Indeed!" The married woman stiffened perceptibly.

"I didn't mean it that way," protested the engaged girl. "They are both the very nicest men in the world
—only different. We are to be married very soon and I wanted to ask you about the expenses of a flat."

"Yes, I can tell you all about it,"
said the mollified young married woman.
"Jack says I am the best manager
he ever saw—best at spending and best at saving. It sounds paradoxical, doesn't it? Now I am going to consider our secret to you, though Jack says, 'Let's not let the world know.'
So you mustn't tell any one."

"You can rely on me," said the engaged girl. "That is, of course, I'll tell Harry."

"First, let me advise you to learn to manage your husband," counseled the young married woman, sagely. "This part, of course, you mustn't tell Harry.
Let all important suggestions come from him. If you need a new hat tell him he looks so nice that you hope he won't be ashamed to go out with you in your old hat—that you just can't afford a new one—and see what will happen. Second, don't economize."

"But we'll have to," said the engaged girl. "We must be very careful the first year."

"Beware! That will be a precedent he'll always expect you to live up to.
Don't do it. You can save money another way—our way. The usual trouble with a bride is that she makes the grocery bill so small at first her husband doesn't know how to handle
more than a few dollars."

"As for clothes! Women make over their trousseaus until a man thinks dresses and hats grow on trees. No, my dear, that isn't the way. It is much easier to get money when you are first married than it will be later.
I know mamma always had to wait until winter for her summer clothes and then it would be warm weather
before she got her winter outfit."

"I can do my own sewing and I am learning to make bread—"

"Stuff and nonsense! Not that I don't believe in learning to cook—Jack encouraged my going to a domestic science school as soon as we began to keep house. Mamma's experience was so different. They didn't have the domestic science schools in her day and she said she cried every meal the first year she was married.
Papa's mother was a splendid cook and for a long time mamma just couldn't get the knack. But, as I was telling you, learned to make rabbit, sauté dressing and wine sauces first.
Of course, Jack asked why they didn't teach us to make bread and to roast meat; but what is the use of learning to make those common things when one can always buy them? At first I did try, but soon I just took to buying everything except my soules—"

"But the expense?"

"Jack doesn't mind if they do cost a trifle more. He says he thanks his stars there are plenty of delicatessen stores. Anyway, we are saving so much money that the extra cost of food doesn't worry us."

"Jack is so good about giving me all he earns—every cent. I save it all and buy what I want on credit. Jack didn't know at first that I had the money put away in an old trunk."

"When the bills began to come in thick and fast he laughed—that is, at first; then he scolded and I cried.
That made him feel so like a brute
that he said I could charge anything
I wanted to, though goodness knows how he could pay the bills. Then I told him I was saving his money—"

"I don't think Harry would want me to charge things," said the engaged girl, dubiously.

"When I explained it to Jack he thought me a perfect wonder. 'Give me the cash for the groceries,' said he,
'and I'll give you a nice new bank check for the amount and you may keep it as long as you want to—the longer the better.'"

"I told him I would keep all the checks he gave me until we had been married 35 years. He was so pleased!
Now he writes me extra big checks every month and takes the cash to pay the bills. I keep the checks safely."

"So we have everything we want and save a lot, too. It isn't necessary to economize—that is, if Harry is half as generous with his bank checks as Jack is."

What Worried Him.

"You look worried, Binkins."

"I am."

"Somebody ill at home?"

"No."

"Business isn't what it should be,
eh?"

"That ain't it."

"Well, then, what worries you?"

"I was just wondering how it's going to be possible to heat them acroplains in the winter."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A BUSY TIME AT THE E. C. S. N.

It may be said literally something is doing at the Normal today and promises to continue throughout this week. About one hundred and fifty students are taking examinations for teachers' certificates, while a few of the prospective teachers will be satisfied with county certificates, by far the greater number are aspiring to state normal certificates.

Examination days are seldom looked forward to with pleasure by either student or teacher. Normal schools not excepted. Often everything you ever did know leaves your head a good deal quicker than it got there even if you did sit up till the night before and learn it all. Although it is aside from our story, and though the days of cramming for exams have long since passed into history, we venture some one reverted to type this week.

When the papers are handed in then it is that the student gets even with the instructor so to speak, for they must be graded and it comes the teachers time to sit up, wonder, guess and figure a few things. Such a task is confronting members of the normal faculty this week, and more than that there are the certificates of attendance to issue, besides teacher's certificates. Then there is the pleasant little bit of work to do in the way of making a county institute report for each county that worked in conjunction with the state normal, and, there is more reporting, the state normal report must be made. These of course go to the state superintendent.

But every sweet has its bitter, and all things must be bought with a price. The certificates will reward the laborers who will go forth to battle with ignorance and—well we hope nothing else.

Some Fun Out of Deputy

Deputy Sheriff John Kitchens, of Stonewall had a rather hard night's work for potting last night.

Some one cut the lock of the calaboose and let a prisoner out. While Kitchens looked till midnight for the bird that had flown, his search was in vain. Then at the time he was ready for a good snooze, a phone message from Franks came, calling him over there to quell some drunks. He went—but found everything so quiet that he turned away in disgust without disturbing the slumbering inhabitants.

SOME ANTISALOON TALK LABORING MEN AND LIQUOR

Yesterday a working man in this city said to me, "You will find the greater part of the pro-whiskey vote in this State among the working men."

I wonder, really, if this is true. If so I do not know why it is. The laboring man is usually the first man hurt by the saloon and the liquor traffic. He is hit hardest, because he is the most easily hit. Twenty cents a day spent for liquor by a bank president might not be felt so much by him and his family. Not so with the laboring man. It takes all of his $3.00 or $4.00 to keep the family fed and clothed, and if he drops in to the till of the dram shop his little twenty or forty cents a day it hurts—hurts him, hurts his wife, and hurts his children—hurts bad the whole family. Besides the financial hurt it hurts him physically worse, for on his daily PHYSICAL force he is depending for "daily bread"—and not only he himself is depending on this daily physical force but his loved ones at home. Yes sir, the laboring man should be THE FIRST man in the country to vote and work to keep the sale of liquor JUST AS FAR FROM HIM AS POSSIBLE.

I recall that when some twenty years ago I was to make a campaign in Lee county Miss against the licensed saloon that a big, red-faced, large nosed neighbor, who was known all over the county as a liberal consumer of the "ardent" volunteered to go with me, and asked that he might also speak. He was a plain working man, and had no powers of cultivated oratory. But he "spoke right on" and told his story, day after day. He asked his neighbors everywhere to vote against the saloon in his county, giving it as his reason that he wanted it to be JUST AS HARD AS POSSIBLE FOR HIM TO GET DRUNK. He pleaded for Mary and the children with tears in his big red eyes, and told them that so long as liquor was sold in the town where he sold his produce he was liable to buy it and drink it. He told them also that he had spent lots of money for drink that rightly belonged to "Mary and the children." They listened to his story. They believed in its truth. They saw the point. They voted saloons clean out of his county. That was twenty years ago. This neighbor of mine had not much of a home then, and a precious light bank account. Truth is he had just returned from serving five years in the "pen." If you were to pass that way now you would see a neat white cottage on the same hill where then stood the old log cabin. You would find the brightness of joy to have returned to the eyes of Mary and the children. You will find that this man loans yearly to his neighbors several hundred dollars. You will find his check good in his home bank for any reasonable amount. Ask him and Mary why it is so different, and they will tell you, "Because Bob quit drink." Ask Bob why he quit, and he will tell you, "Because it was put where I could not see it and smell it when I went to town."

This neighbor's case is only one of thousands. When it becomes very inconvenient for laboring men to drink larger proportions if they will quit than any others.

The Anti-Saloon work is a better friend to the laboring man than to any one else. It does him a greater blessing. When he sees it this way he will not any longer be the friend of the saloon movement in any form. Th liquor dealers and makers will always fool the working man. When he stops long enough to think he will vote "DRY."

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

Of late years millions of emigrants have come to us from foreign countries. The heartless liquor traffic has found among these ignorant strangers an open and profitable market. Brewers, distillers and the retail dealer have followed these people and beside the labor camps and mining shacks, stands that disgrace—the American saloon, and the liquor agent to corrupt, impoverish, and brutalize these who have sought our shores to improve their condition. "Tonight it (liquor traffic) enters a humble home to strike the roses from a woman's cheek, and tomorrow it challenges this republic in the halls of congress."

Today it strikes a crust from the lips of a starving child, tomorrow it levies tribute from the government itself.

It defies the law when it cannot coerce suffrage. It is the mortal enemy of peace and order, the despoiler of men, the demon that has dug more graves and sent more souls unshriven to judgment than have wasted life since God sent plagues to Egypt, and all the woes since Joshua stood before Jericho. It comes to ruin and it shall profit

Thompson His Daughter-in-Law Tact

By Louise Spencer

"So we're the decoration committee, we three—you and Jean and I."
 Mrs. Jones stood in the middle of the lodge room of the new club house and looked critically at the broad expansion of undecorated wall. Then, pulling off her gloves looking with a teasing smile at Robert Hastings, she went on: "I see how you manage it, Robert. Nothing like being the son of the president of the club, and having any one you want appointed on your committees. And only last month you and Jean were on the house committee together!"

"Fiddlesticks!" replied the young man abruptly. "On my word of honor
 I didn't know Jean was on the committee till you told me. Come, let's look over these pictures and have them ready to hang."

"Here she is now, the dear!" exclaimed Mrs. Jones, hurrying to greet the new comer, a frank-eyed young girl, whose graceful step and fresh color declared her athletic distinction.
 She looked inquiringly at Robert as soon as she was free from Mrs. Jones' embrace.

"Can't help it, Jean. I'm not responsible," said the young man with an air of indifference, as he arranged the pictures in a row against the wall for inspection.

The club house door swung noisily
 open and the president, Mr. Hastings, entered the room. He was an athletic,
 white-haired man, past middle age,
 whose pleasant, frank eyes, and simple smile, always brought the light into Jean's girlish face.

"This is good," he said, laying a fatherly hand on her shoulder. "You and Bob are doing good team work again. How you have improved the place, Mrs. Jones! A fire there on

"Get a Dinner Date Tonight, Jean?"
 the hearth, these pictures in place,
 and we'll be in ship-shape."

"I say, Mrs. Jones," said Robert, holding up a framed photograph of a placid, middle-aged man for inspection. "Where does this go?"

"Oh, be sure to put that in the best place," Mrs. Jones answered. "Not that Mr. Thompson was a whit better president than you, Mr. Hastings, for he wasn't. Here, Robert, call the steward to do that. You'll certainly break your neck or smash your thumbs. Oh, well, all right. There, that's a fine place for Mr. Thompson, right opposite the door. Such a way as that man had, too. You remember, don't you Mr. Hastings? He could make any one do anything he wanted him to. Diplomacy, I suppose you'd call it, but we always called it
 'Thompson Tact.' I remember when my husband—and a stubborn man he is, too—had charge of the tennis courts when the club started, he was bound there should be three turf events and only one dirt one, Fanny!
 Well, everybody was excited about it and he was going right ahead with his own notion. Then one day Mr.
 Thompson smiled and said that he wanted four turf courts and didn't want any others at all. Every one was thunderstruck. Mr. Thompson instilled that my husband forgot all about what he had said in the beginning and read up on dirt courts till he was a regular expert, and then Mr. Thompson, gradually, just as if he was being convinced, let my husband argue him over."

Here Mrs. Jones laughed. "Mr.
 Jones never said another word about
 the three turf courts he had wanted, and the thing went through just as every one wanted it." Here she lowered her voice and whispered, "And he doesn't know to this day that Mr.
 Thompson was just using tact."

"M'm," assented Robert, from the top of the ladder, "not a bad idea, that."

A few minutes later the work of the committee was completed and Jean was the first to leave. As Hastings saw the girl's face through the door, with the wind in her hair,
 he suddenly remarked, "Oh, Rob, go and ask Jean to have dinner with us tonight. Your mother asked me to, and I forgot."

Granger Malton had ambitions. If it had not been so he never would have attained the eminence in the world that was his, for only dogged persistence, an iron will and desire for power would have sufficed to overcome the handicaps that had been his
 as a poverty-stricken boy and youth.

Now that all things material were his, he began to yearn for other joys—social supremacy, for one. Shrewd enough to realize the race was run for himself, he centered his schemes and hopes on his only son, Hadley. It made him satisfied with life and repaid him for his struggles when he looked at Hadley, who was everything
 his father was not—big, handsome, clever of speech and graceful of manner, so distinguished by his spirit of sheer good nature and well being that he was always a marked man when he entered a room. He drew people to him by a magnetism that was irresistible. He was pointed out by the crowd as a shining exception to the general run of extremely rich men's sons, and Granger Malton let himself dream dreams as to Hadley's future, especially concerning his marriage.

Hadley's mother, long dead, had sprung from the same class as Granger himself, and as the older man looked back through the vista of years and recalled her, colorless, faithful, commonplace and awkward, he wondered a little sadly what she would have done with the money and the granite palace and the power that would have been hers. Stern honesty told him she would have done nothing—would have sunk beneath the weight in awkward terror.

He could fancy her shrinking through the big halls of the home he and Hadley occupied. No, Mary would

"I've Been a Fool."

not have been happy; she could not have grown into the station Fate had in store for her. Moreover, she would have hampered him. He was resolved that the girl Hadley married should be one who would not hamper him;
 for his son was to progress even further than he had done. His wife must have been brought up in luxury from the cradle, so what would have made Hadley's mother gasp would be taken as a matter of course by her. She must have beauty and youth and the sort of sweet haughtiness that comes from careful sheltering and breeding.
 She must be fitted by birth and bringing up to reign over the huge Malton house on Fifth Avenue and the country place at Newport.

For a year or so, Granger Malton had been calmly reviewing the younger beauties of the town trying to decide which one Hadley should marry, for he never doubted his son's willingness to please him in this point. He was too shrewd to dictate, but he knew how to manage him. Let the boy think he had all the rope he wanted and yet twitch the rope in the direction he wished Hadley to go. He decided that it was time to disclose carefully his general views to his son
 one night as they sat over their coffee and cigars in the big library, but his speech was checked by the curious expression on the young man's face.
 Never had he seen him so pale, so tensely nervous, yet so fearless.

"Father," Hadley broke the silence which fell as Granger Malton's words trailed off into nothingness in his surprise, "don't talk to me of marriage—of your wishes—your views! I have something to tell you myself tonight.
 I was married this morning to—"

He ceased and sprang forward at his father's ghastly face, but the older man motioned him away as he slowly recovered his self-control. Yet his face was gray and aged from the moment. He stared at Hadley with an awful curiosity, as something new and strange.
 "Married!" he echoed at last, choking-ly. "I can't believe it! You! To do a thing like that! After all my plans.
 You've spoiled your life! Men don't run off and marry secretly when they are proud of the girl! Who is she? Do I know her?"

"No," said the son, as white as his father. "You don't know her. But—"

The Training of Simpkins

By John Philip Arris

When Simpkins began calling at Paradise flat, which is the name Carline and Edwina have given their girl bachelor apartment, his hostess agreed that he was rather a bore. But as time went on and he continued to come with marked regularity they both found him interesting, although they did not confide this fact to each other. On the contrary, they still spoke of him with good-natured derision and never for a moment owned that any elaboration of dress on the evenings he was expected had any connection with his visits.

There was something touching in the naive manner with which Simpkins consulted them on many little social points. He admitted that he had never had the opportunity of learning much about the intricacies of good form until he had the advantage of their acquaintance. So they began to feel that he was their mission.

"What colored necktie shall I wear with my new gray spring suit?" he asked one evening.
 "A green one of a soft dull shade," suggested Edwina.

"I think a gray one, a little lighter tone than the suit, with a touch of red in it, will be much smarter," said Carline.

"Gray and red is so commonplace,"
 said Edwina.
 "I don't think so," returned Carline firmly.

Simpkins, after declaring that he would provide himself with neckties of both kinds, hastened to change the subject.

This difference of opinion was the beginning of many disagreements in regard to Simpkins. However, he continued to consult them and his path grew more smooth when they began to receive him separately. Caroline pleaded a headache on the night of one visit and Edwina was excused on account of fatigue on another evening. So it became the custom for only one girl to appear when he called.

On the day that Caroline happened
 upon Simpkins and Edwina lunching together downtown, she haughtily declined his invitation to join them. She also refused to see him that evening, though it was her turn to entertain him. She insisted that she had important letters to write.

The next morning when she started to her office, as usual, a few minutes later than Edwina, she found Simpkins loitering on the corner.
 "This is Saturday, and I hope that you'll go to the matinee with me," said he so humbly that she could not find it in her heart to decline.

"Perhaps he doesn't prefer Edwina after all," she told herself when they had parted. "If he accidentally met her downtown yesterday noon, very likely she gave him the opportunity to invite her to lunch. Even very nice girls do that sort of thing sometimes, though I should never have expected
 such forwardness of Edwina."

"Where were you this afternoon, Caroline?" asked Edwina that evening. "I thought you were coming home early."

"I did intend to, but I went to the matinee,"
 "Oh, I see," remarked Edwina with icy sweetness. "How very nice! I hope you enjoyed it?"

"Very much indeed, thank you."
 "Do you know, Caroline, I always think that a man who goes to the matinee is rather silly. Goodness, there's the bell! You didn't expect him—any one, to night, did you?"

"Of course not. You know he was here last night."
 "Well, it's his ring, anyway. Will you see him? You'll have to, for I have important letters to write."

When Caroline opened the door for the caller he said immediately that he wanted to see both of them.
 "I've got something to tell you that I want you both to hear," stammering announced Simpkins after Edwina had been summoned. "I tried to tell you, Miss Edwina, at lunch yesterday, but somehow I didn't succeed, and this afternoon I meant to tell you, Miss Caroline, at the matinee, but I couldn't,
 so I just made up my mind to run in tonight."

"You are awfully good friends of mine and I don't believe I should ever have gained my great happiness if it hadn't been for the splendid advice you have given me. I know you'll be glad to hear that I'm engaged to Mrs. Welby, my landlady."
 "We hope you'll be very happy,"
 said Edwina.

"I'm sure I shall," returned Simpkins fatuously, "and I shall tell her how grateful she must be to you two for making me anywhere near worthy of her. I'm sorry I can't stay longer, but she's expecting me."
 "We wouldn't detain you for the world," said both girls at once. Then, scarcely waiting for the door to close behind their guest, they burst into the friendliest kind of laughter.

Let Me Enjoy.
 Let me enjoy the earth no less Because the all-creating Might
 That fashioned forth its loveliness
 Had other aims than my delight.

About my path there fits a Fair,
 Who throws me not a word or sign;
 I will find charm in her uppers,
 And land those lips not meant for mine.

From manuscripts of moving song,
 Inspired by scenes and souls unknown,
 Till your out raptures that belong
 To others, as they were my own.

Perhaps some day, toward Paradise
 I shall lift glad, afar-off eyes,
 Though it contain no place for me.
